DISTRICT COUNCIL OF THE BOY SCOUTS

A meeting of the District Council of the Boy Scouts of America, held at the Elks club Monday afternoon, at which time the following officers were elected:

B. H. Goggin, president.
J. B. Arpin, 1st vice president.
J. B. Redford, 2d vice president.
B. W. Ellis, 3d vice president.
A. B. Holcomb, secretary.

This council is made up of members from all the Elks clubs in the Grand Rapids and vicinity. The following men besides the officers, make up the council: B. B. Redford, L. B. Nash, Otto Roenius, William Kellogg, W. H. Carey, J. R. Ragan, Joe Whist, Nate Anderson, C. G. Eklund, Wm. Glue, J. P. Witter, Harry Whitteley, P. H. Eberhardt, H. E. Gault, W. W. Schmeidler, G. W. Moore, G. O. Hancock, J. A. Cohen, C. W. Schwede, Louis Parlier, Theo. W. Brazeau, F. J. Wood, R. L. Nash, R. F. Payne, Gilbert Marvin, A. P. Adlman and Len Smith.

F. Kinkster who has been acting as Scout Executive for the National Council, was employed to continue in that capacity in this district, and has his office in the new Citizens bank building.

Three months time, this organization has been built up in this city, until it is now one of the largest in the state.

When people in this city saw what the movement was what it stood for, and what it taught their boys, they became very enthusiastic about it. The result has been the organization of this council, to help and co-operate in every way possible in the making of better citizens.

This movement deserves the support of every true American. L. F. Kinkster is Scout Executive of this section, and besides the organization in this city, which there is better than 150 members, he has recently perfected an organization at Necedah, and is looking forward to similar organizations at Port Edwards and Nekoosa, where there is a demand for such organizations.

Mr. Kinkster expects to take a party of the boys out on a camping trip in the near future, also as yet it has not been decided where their camp will be. Mr. Kinkster expects to look over some of the available locations within the next week and it is probable that they will go to one of the lakes either near Wild Rose or Wausau. It is expected that there will be about fifty in the party and they will spend about two weeks in camp. The place selected for the camp is generally on a lake where there are good facilities for swimming and some fishing, if possible. The boys while in camp, live in tents and get a little taste of roughing it, and acquire some knowledge of this sort of life, and it furnishes a nice outing for them as well as being instructive in being self-reliant and there is nothing connected with the matter that any person could object to in any way.

THE WAR SITUATION

While it would take a man with second sight or clairvoyant powers to tell just what the future of the war was going to be, and how those engaged in the war feel about the matter, it seems to a casual observer that the tendency was toward peace of some kind.

The Kaiser claims that he is going to carry the war to a finish and that he is confident of winning, but this does not seem to have much effect on the allies. They are carrying the fighting right to the enemy at all times, and while they have some setbacks, the general tendency is a continuous advance and the gradual acquisition of more ground from day to day.

The press dispatches tell of an upheaval in the German empire and the existence of four factions, but it appears that all of the factions are in favor of peace in one form or another. The reports concerning the food conditions in Germany are decidedly conflicting. One day it is reported that they are gradually starving over there, and the next report is to the effect that there is a plenty and that this part of the program is not causing them any worry. Another report is to the effect that every available man is in the army and that they must soon stop for want of material, and the next report is to the effect that they are able to keep their army up to its original strength for all time without any effort.

However, taking it altogether, and looking at it from an unbiased standpoint, it is possible for anybody to do this, one would think that either side would be willing to agree to peace terms, even if they were compelled to sacrifice a mite of pride one way or the other. It would seem as if the most arrogant spirit would now be satisfied with the blood that has been spilled and the lives that have been sacrificed. Big battles have demonstrated that they are mighty good fighters and capable of putting up one of the best scraps that the world has ever known, which ought to satisfy everybody concerned.

OLSON-BRIERE

Mrs. Georgia Olson and Charles E. Briere, both of this city, were married at 5 o'clock this morning at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Ridgman, R. L. K. J. Mrs. A. L. Ridgman, pastor of the Congregational church performing the ceremony that made them man and wife. Fifteen minutes after the conclusion of the ceremony the newly-weds got into their car and started west, Washington, where they will visit for a short time and then return to this city to make their home.

Both of the contracting parties are natives of Grand Rapids and are among our most popular young people. The bride is the daughter of Dr. A. L. Ridgman and has lived in this city all her life and has many friends among both young and old. The groom is one of our young men who has also lived in this city all his life, and they both have many friends who will unite with the Tribune in extending the heartiest of congratulations and wishing them a long life of happiness.

LOCAL BANK HONORED

The Wood County National Bank of this city has been designated as a depository for United States funds. This fact would indicate that our banking institutions stand high in the estimation of those who are supposed to know about such matters.

Leo White, who is a member of the National Guard at Moberly, South Dakota, is in the city for a few days visit with his sister, Mrs. John Plana-gas, and his mother at Vesper.

CHANGES RECOMMENDED

R. W. Callon, assistant building inspector of the industrial commission, has recommended some changes at the Lincoln high school, following a recent inspection of the building at that building. It seems that the exits from the main room are too narrow provided the full capacity of the room is used, which is done at times when there are public entertainments there. The report also advises the installation of hand rails on the main stairway, a change in the windows so as to make the fire escapes more accessible and installation of additional fire alarms.

HELLUP! HELLUP! RECRUITS WANTED

The Tribune is in receipt of an appeal from the Bachelor's Club of this city which is apparently on the verge of extinction, and if recruits are not forthcoming within a short time, it is evident that one of the most remarkable and distinguished organizations in this city, and probably the county, and possibly the state or nation, will pass into that condition dubbed by spellbinders as "obsolescence."

It appears that about five years ago there was an organization formed in this city known as the Bachelor's Club. Each member appeared before the head tribunal, and, holding up his right hand was branded on the breast with a white hot iron with a large letter "B" on it. Then he was given enough liquid refreshment to resuscitate him, and after complying with the rules and regulations of the society was declared a member in full standing.

Among the vows taken were: Never look upon the face of woman-lykind with anything more friendly than that of brotherly affection, or at most, platonic friendship. Never to saddle themselves with wife, sweetheart or anything of that kind that would call for a life lease on a lunch counter or a vine covered cottage or any of that tommyrot. To be always ready in case of war to respond to the country's call and have no encumbrances to be left for the government to support.

It seems, however, that the boys failed to consult the fair sex when they made these vows, and one by one they have been fished from the ranks until at the present time there are but three of the lone lorn bachelors left. Those who have fallen from grace are: Punk Fritzinger, Geo. Houston, Bobbie Nash, Charlie Frodo, Henry Handlin, Myldoon Mulroy, Joe Gans Natwick, and last, but not least, Puss Briere.

The boys, in their appeal for recruits, want it distinctly understood that no girls, old maids or widows need apply.

Signed:
J. E. Carrigan, President,
C. M. Nash, Vice President,
Ed Smith, Sec. & Treas.

IN JUSTICE COURT

Joe Pee of Port Edwards was up before Justice Calkins Wednesday afternoon on a charge of using abusive language, the complaining witness being Ben Noggles. Joe pleaded guilty to the charge against him and paid a fine of one dollar and costs.

Joe Czilinski was also before Judge Calkins on Wednesday on a charge of assault and battery, the complainant being Mrs. Mary Dalley, wards. Czilinski entered a plea of not guilty and was fined one dollar and costs.

DENTIST SELLS BUSINESS

Dr. J. M. Bischoff of Stevens Point, who has practiced dentistry in this city during the past 22 years, has sold out his business to Dr. W. P. Matter of Galesville. Dr. Bischoff will make a trip thru the east, after which he will return to Stevens Point. Dr. Bischoff is also interested in the bill posting business, having 22 plants located in various places in central Wisconsin, and he will retain this business.

NOTICE FOR BIDS

The city of Grand Rapids, thru its Board of Public Works, will receive sealed bids for the A. J. Hasbrouck barn, at the city clerk's office, up to 2 p. m., July 26.

Size of barn is 40x100 feet, two stories, and mostly all white pine lumber. Building must be torn down and not moved.

Board of Public Works.

MARSHFIELD WON THE GAME

There was a game of baseball on Sunday between the local team and the boys from Marshfield and it resulted in a victory for the visitors. A score of 10 to 4. Those who saw the game report that the Marshfield boys outplayed our team at every turn, and there was no chance for them to win at any time.

NOTICE TO TRIM SHADE TREES

—Owners of shade trees are requested to trim them up to 8 feet above the sidewalk at once and comply with the city ordinance.

H. S. PAYNE,
Chief of Police.

BAND CONCERT TONIGHT

Should the weather be favorable the band will give a concert at the east side band stand this evening.

Some miscreant entered the chicken coop of Mrs. Dave Taylor near Tilton last Saturday night and stole half a dozen of her best chickens. As yet the culprits have not been located.

Mrs. John E. Daly and children, Esther, Bob and Donald, left this morning by auto for Minneapolis where they expect to spend a couple of weeks on one of the lakes. Mr. Daly will leave next week for the same place.

From a card received by Mrs. Orestes Garrison this week from her sister, Miss Stella Simmons, who is accompanying the Andrew Searis family on an auto trip thru the west, it is learned that the party had been thru the Yellowstone Park and had gotten as far south as Denver, Colorado, and were about to start on the return trip. They report having had a fine trip, with good roads and favorable weather.

Some men want a lot of credit for being decent because they are compelled to do so by law.

If politics, religion and the weather were eliminated from the conversation some men wouldn't be able to say a word.

EXTERMINATION OF THE CROW IN SIGHT

L. M. Nash is of the opinion that the hunters of Grand Rapids should organize a crow club and go after the crows in this vicinity and either exterminate them or else make it so hot for them that they will move to quarters where they will be treated with more respect.

The crow is charged with many misdemeanors. He follows the farmer around and eats his seed corn. What he does not get at planting time he will pull up after it has sprouted and eat the grain off the bottom of the sprout. He robs birds' nests of all kinds, eating the eggs if he finds them early enough and the young birds if he does not get there in time to eat the eggs. He also steals young chickens from the farmer's yard and makes himself generally obnoxious. He also comes right into the city and robs the birds' nests, coming and going so quietly that nobody suspects his presence unless he is seen leaving the place. He also robs the nests of the prairie chickens and partridges. These are just a few of the mean things that are charged up against him, and while he may have some virtues, they are not prominent enough to offset the many bad things that are charged up against him.

Years ago the crow was numbered among the best of the game birds. Many farmers claiming that the little crow they ate was more than compensated for by the large amount of worms and bugs that they devoured during the summer. Whether this is true or not, cannot be stated, but it is a fact that the bird has been adjudged a nuisance and a price has been set on his head and every man's hand has been turned against him.

Mr. Nash's idea is to organize the hunters of Grand Rapids and vicinity into a crow club, and to hunt the birds systematically. Incidentally, the members of the club will have some sport in the work and at the same time reduce the cost of his living by the scalp they bring in at night. Of course the crow is rather a wild bird, and where he is hunted to any extent he is as hard to approach as a deer, and of no advantage for the hunter being that the crow can generally be seen a greater distance and makes more noise, but he is a smaller object to shoot at and has generally to be killed with a shotgun, which shortens the range very materially.

The one objection that has been put up against the plan is that some of our sportsmen who are a little color blind, might, while trailing a crow, shoot a prairie chicken or a partridge, and before they had discovered the difference, shoot the game bird, thinking it was a crow. Any proceeding of this kind would subject the crow hunter to a fine or imprisonment, and, if discovered, cause him much embarrassment among his friends here in town for several weeks after the event. Of course, it is not supposed that any hunter would make such a mistake willfully.

If the club is organized it is probable that some sort of prize will be offered to the one who brings in the greatest number of scalps, with possibly teams organized for competition. In case the proposition goes thru it is probable that crow hunters will be in great demand and anybody having a dog of this brand is requested to communicate with the Tribune at his earliest convenience.

Rev. J. J. Brennan, pastor of St. James Catholic church at Wausau for the past twelve years, has resigned his pastorate there and has been assigned to a parish at Shullsburg, near the home of his mother. He will be succeeded by Rev. E. P. O'Toole of Ellsworth.

CAR DRIVER ARRESTED

Chester Hansel, driver of the car which ran into the pond at Wild Rose causing drowning of Herbert Sweet, who was in the car, has been arrested on a charge of manslaughter. The coroner's jury, after examining Hansel andillery Patterson, the third member of the party, brought in a report, finding that Hansel, who was the owner as well as the driver of the car, was responsible.

Both Hansel and Patterson denied that they were intoxicated and said they could not remember Sweet being in the car with them. When they were pulled out of the pond after the accident they said they had no others in the automobile. Sweet's body was found by chance the next day. Witnesses testified that the car, when going at an illegal speed, broke through the fence and went into the water.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS OLD

Ralph H. Boynton, 678 Main street, is believed to be the oldest man in Oshkosh and probably in Winnebago county. He celebrated his one-hundredth birthday anniversary Friday. Mr. Boynton is in good health and has an excellent memory. He tells many interesting incidents of the early part of the Nineteenth century. —Oshkosh Northwestern.

The Mr. Boynton mentioned above was formerly a resident of Pittsville and was well acquainted in this city, having served the county as a member of the jury commission for years. He left here several years ago and went to live with a niece at Oshkosh, and was a remarkable man for his years, having a very retentive memory and retaining all his faculties. Mr. Boynton stamped the state for Lincoln when he ran for president.

BACK FROM FORT SHERIDAN

Steve Schwelke, who has been at Fort Sheridan with the officers reserve corps, returned to this city on Tuesday, and from here goes to Veedum to visit his people for a short time, after which he will enlist in the regular army. Steve reports that while he did not get a commission, he is well pleased with the training that he got at the camp and feels that the time was well spent, and especially so for one who intends to enlist in the army.

At Fort Sheridan the selection of officers is made from those in attendance, and of the number there, only about one-third can be taken, so that there are about two-thirds of the boys that are bound to be sent back home no matter how hard they work nor how anxious they are to go.

FOR SALE

—As I am going out of the livery business, I offer for sale at bargain prices, all of my horses, buggies, harness and robes. If you need anything in this line you will save money by seeing me.

Also have a good medium-sized safe for sale.

Amos Hasbrouck.

DONATE TO RED CROSS

There was a little shoot at the club grounds last Sunday when Dr. Mortensen and Attorney J. J. Jeffrey shot a hundred-bird event, the loser to donate the sum of $5 to the Red Cross. Dr. Mortensen won with a score of 96 out of 100, Jeffrey breaking 84. It was an off day for Jeffrey, while Mortensen was shooting in fine form.

HURT AT THE SWIMMING POOL

Harold Rodighier was quite severely lacerated on Monday while sliding down one of the chutes at the swimming pool. He was given medical attention and it is not expected that any complications will follow.

Kill Germs and Save Human Life

The menace of militarism, the horrors of war and the toll of death taken in all frightful accidents is as nothing compared to the danger of unseen deadly germs.

Even in war itself the toll of human life taken outright by the whizzing bullet, the bursting shrapnel, or the piercing steel is less than that caused by the unseen deadly germs that attack the wounded and the well alike.

Human life will be lengthened and human happiness increased when we learn better to guard ourselves against the danger of the ever present germs of disease.

Powdered boric is one of Nature's most wonderful gifts to man, for it enables us, through antiseptics, to ward off the danger of infection.

Owing to its wonderful antiseptic properties it cannot be too highly recommended for liberal use in the care of the person wherever and whenever exposed to the germs of disease.

Pure powdered boric may be used with absolute freedom and safety in all the natural cavities of the body. To realize how healing it is, yet how safe, we have but to recall that the physician almost always prescribes it as the principal ingredient of an eye water.

The manufacture of powdered boric has been brought to such a high degree of efficiency by one concern that if we always remember to specify "20 Mule Team Powdered Boric" we know that we have the real article in full strength.

On every package of 20 Mule Team Powdered Boric will be found directions for its multitude of uses and the expense is so little that no one should ever be without it.

A solution of 20 Mule Team Powdered Boric in water makes an absolute and positive antiseptic for all personal use. It is excellent for a shampoo, for it kills the germ that makes the dandruff that spoils the lustre of the hair and causes it to fall out and cease to grow.

It should be used as a mouth wash on account of its antiseptic qualities whenever there is the slightest danger of having been exposed by being brought in contact with persons suffering with colds, sore throats, etc.

To overcome the unpleasant effect consequent upon excessive perspiration the use of 20 Mule Team Powdered Boric will give great satisfaction, making everything sweet and clean and healing any abrasion that may have occurred.

A hot foot bath with a liberal quantity of 20 Mule Team Powdered Boric will make the feet feel ten years younger.

For the baby a liberal dusting with 20 Mule Team Powdered Boric not only assures freedom from chafing but helps to maintain an antiseptically clean condition on the little body.

To any cut or abrasion 20 Mule Team Powdered Boric should be freely applied.

20 Mule Team Powdered Boric is a foe to germ life. It should be on the dressing table of every dainty woman and liberally used in every household where health is prized.

Authorized representative will soon call at your home and make arrangements for you to obtain FREE, a full size package of 20 Mule Team Powdered Boric from any of the following druggists:

DISTRICT COUNCIL OF THE BOY SCOUTS

A meeting of the District Council of the Boy Scouts of America, was held at the Elks club Monday afternoon, at which time the following officers were elected:

B. R. Goggin, president.
D. D. Conway, 2d vice president.
W. W. Ellis, 3d vice president.
Warren Fisher, treasurer.
A. E. Holcomb, secretary.
C. W. Rood, city commissioner.

This council is made up of members from this city, Elron, Port Edwards and Nekosia. Every church is represented as the movement is strictly non-sectarian. The following men besides the officers, make up the council: E. B. Radford, L. B. Nash, Otto Roenlis, William Keating, and Otto Goggin, Jr. from the Elks club; N. A. Anderson, C. G. Eklund, Wm. The Tribune is in receipt of an appeal for help from the Bachelor's Club of this city which is apparently on the verge of extinction, and if recruits are not forthcoming within a short time, it is evident that one of the most remarkable and distinguished organizations in this city, and probably the county, and possibly the state or nation, will pass into that condition dubbed by spellbinders as innocuous desuetude.

It appears that about five years ago there was an organization formed in this city known as the Bachelor's Club. Each member appeared before the head tribunal, and holding up his right hand was branded on the breast with a white hot iron with a large letter "B" on it. Then he was given enough liquid refreshment to resuscitate him, and after complying with the rules and regulations of the society was declared a member in full standing.

Among the vows taken were: Never look upon the face of woman-lykind with anything more friendly than that of brotherly affection, or to seek, in any way, to seduce, sweetheart or anything of that kind that would call for a life lease on a lunch counter or a vine covered cottage or any of that tommyrot. To be always ready in case of war to respond to their country's call and have no encumbrances to be left for the government to support.

It seems, however, that the boys failed to consult the facts when they made these vows, and one by one they have been ditched from the ranks until at the present time there are but three of the lone lone bachelors left. Those who have fallen from grace are: George Housh, Bobbie Nash, Charley Foote, Banty Bandelin, Muldoon Mulroy, Joe Gans Nawick, and last, but not least, Puss Briere.

The boys, in their appeal for recruits, want it distinctly understood that no girls, old maids or widows need apply.

IN JUSTICE COURT

Joe Pec of Port Edwards was up before Justice Calkins Wednesday afternoon on a charge of using abusive language, the complaining witness being Ben Nogles. Joe pleaded guilty to the charge against him and paid a fine of one dollar and costs.

Joe Czinkinske was also before Judge Calkins on Wednesday on a charge of assault and battery, the complaining being Mrs. Mary Dailey, both parties being from Port Edwards. Czinkinske entered a plea of not guilty and was fined one dollar and costs.

DENTIST SELLS BUSINESS

Dr. J. M. Bischoff of Stevens Point, who has practiced dentistry in that city during the past 22 years, has sold out his business to Dr. V. P. Maller of Galesville. Dr. Bischoff will make a trip thru the east, after which he will return to Stevens Point. Dr. Bischoff is also interested in the bill posting business, having 22 plants located in various places in central Wisconsin, and he will retain this business.

NOTICE FOR BIDS

The city of Grand Rapids, thru its Board of Public Works, will receive sealed bids for the A. J. Hasbrouck barn at the city clerk's office, up to 2 p. m., July 26.

Size of barn is 40x100 feet, two stories, and mostly all white pine lumber. Building must be torn down and not moved.

Board of Public Works.

MARSHFIELD WON THE GAME

There was a game of baseball on Sunday between the local team and the boys from Marshfield and it resulted in a victory for the visitors. The score of 10 to 2 was the result of a game in which the Marshfield boys outplayed our team at every turn, and there was no chance for them to win at any time.

NOTICE TO TRIM SHADE TREES

Owners of shade trees are requested to trim them up to 8 feet above the sidewalk at once and comply with the city ordinance.

R. S. PAYNE,
Chief of Police.

BAND CONCERT TONIGHT

Should the weather be favorable the band will give a concert at the east side band stand this evening.

Some miscreant entered the chicken coop of Mrs. Dave Taylor near Elron last Saturday night and stole half a dozen of her best chickens. As yet the culprits have not been located.

Mrs. John E. Daly and children, Esther and Donald, left this morning by auto for Minneapolis where they expect to spend a couple of weeks on one of the lakes. Mr. Daly will leave next week for the same place.

From a card received by Mrs. Orestes Garrison this week from her sister, Miss Stella Emmons, who is accompanying the Andrew Sears family on an auto trip thru the west, it is learned that the party had been thru the Yellowstone Park and had gotten as far south as Denver, Colorado, and were about to start on their return trip. They report having had a fine trip, with good roads and favorable weather.

Some men want a lot of credit for being decent because they are compelled to do so by law.

If politics, religion and the weather were eliminated from their conversation some men wouldn't be able to say a word.

EXTERMINATION OF THE CROW IN SIGHT

L. M. Nash is of the opinion that the hunters of Grand Rapids should organize a crow club and go after the crows in this vicinity and either exterminate them or else make it so hot for them that they will move to the quarters where they will be treated with more respect.

The crow is charged with many misdeeds. He follows the farmer around and eats his seed corn. What he does not get at, planting time he will pull up after it has sprouted and eat the grain off the bottom of the sprout. He robs birds' nests of all kinds, eating the eggs if he finds them early enough, and he robs young birds if he does not get there in time for the eggs. He also steals young chickens from the farmer's yard and makes himself generally obnoxious. He also comes right into the city and robs the birds' nests, counting and going so quietly that nobody suspects his presence unless he is seen leaving the place. He also robs the nests of the prairie chickens and partridges. These are just a few of the many things that are charged up against him, and while he may have some virtues, they are not prominent enough to offset the many bad things that are charged up against him.

Years ago the crow was numbered among the benefactors of mankind, many farmers claiming that the little crow ate more than their countenance for by the large amount of worms and bugs that they devoured during the summer season. Whether this is true or not, cannot be stated, but it is a fact that the bird has been adjudged a nuisance and a price has been set on his head against him.

Mr. Nash's idea is to organize the hunters of Grand Rapids and vicinity into a crow club, and to hunt the birds systematically. Intentionally the members of the club will have the sport in the work and at the same time reduce the cost of high living by the scraps they bring in at night. Of course the crow is rather a wild bird, and where he is hunted to any extent he is as hard to approach as a deer, the one advantage for the hunter being that the crow can generally be seen a greater distance and makes more noise than he does. It is a smaller object to shoot at and only about one-third can be taken, so that there are about two-thirds of the boys that are bound to be sent back home no matter how hard they work nor how anxious they are to go.

FOR SALE

—As I am going out of the livery business, I offer for sale at bargain prices, all of my horses, buggies, harness and robes. If you need anything in this line you will save money by seeing me.

Also have a good medium-sized safe for sale.

Amos Hasbrouck.

DONATE TO RED CROSS

There was a little shoot at the club grounds last Sunday when Dr. Mortenson and Attorney J. J. Jeffrey shot a hundred-bird event, the loser to donate the supervision won with a score of 96 out of 100, Jeffrey breaking 84. It was an off day for Jeffrey, while Mortenson was shooting in fine form.

HURT AT THE SWIMMING POOL

Harold Rodeghier was quite severely lacerated on Monday while sliding down one of the chutes at the swimming pool. He was given medical attention and it is not expected that any complications will follow.

Kill Germs and Save Human Life

The menace of militarism, the horrors of war and the toll of death taken in all frightful accidents is as nothing compared to the danger of unseen deadly germs.

Even in war itself the toll of human life taken outright by the whizzing bullet, the bursting shrapnel, or the piercing steel is less than that caused by the unseen deadly germs that attack the wounded and the well alike.

Human life will be lengthened and human happiness increased when we learn better to guard ourselves against the danger of the ever present germs of disease.

Powdered boric is one of Nature's most wonderful gifts to man, for it enables us, through antiseptics, to ward off the danger of infection.

Owing to its wonderful antiseptic properties it cannot be too highly recommended for liberal use in the care of the person wherever and whenever exposed to the germs of disease.

Pure powdered boric may be used with absolute freedom and safety in all the natural cavities of the body. To realize how healing it is, yet how safe, we have but to recall that the physician almost always prescribes it as the principal ingredient of an eye water.

The manufacture of powdered boric has been brought to such a high degree of efficiency by one concern that if we always remember to specify "20 Mule Team Powdered Boric" we know that we have the real article in full strength.

On every package of 20 Mule Team Powdered Boric will be found directions for its multitude of uses and the expense is so little that no one should ever be without it.

A solution of 20 Mule Team Powdered Boric in water makes an absolute and positive antiseptic for all personal use. It is excellent for a shampoo, for it kills the germ that makes the dandruff that spoils the lustre of the hair and causes it to fall out and cease to grow.

It should be used as a mouth wash on account of its antiseptic qualities whenever there is the slightest danger of having been exposed by being brought in contact with persons suffering with colds, sore throats, etc.

To overcome the unpleasant effect consequent upon excessive perspiration the use of 20 Mule Team Powdered Boric will give great satisfaction, making everything sweet and clean and healing any abrasion that may have occurred.

A hot foot bath with a liberal quantity of 20 Mule Team Powdered Boric will make the feet feel ten years younger.

For the baby a liberal dusting with 20 Mule Team Powdered Boric not only assures freedom from chafing but helps to maintain an antiseptically clean condition on the little body.

To any cut or abrasion 20 Mule Team Powdered Boric should be freely applied.

20 Mule Team Powdered Boric is a foe to germ life.

It should be in the dressing table of every dainty woman and liberally used in every household where health is prized.

Authorized representative will soon call at your home and make arrangements for you to obtain FREE, a full size package of 20 Mule Team Powdered Boric from any of the following druggists:

DISTRICT COUNCIL OF THE BOY SCOUTS

A meeting of the District Council of the Boy Scouts of America, was held at the Elks club Monday afternoon, at which time the following officers were elected:

B. R. Goggins, president.
J. D. Arty, 1st vice president.
D. D. Conway, 2d vice president.
E. W. Ellis, 3d vice president.
Warren Fisher, treasurer.

A. E. Nelson, secretary.
C. W. Reed, city commissioner.

This council is made up of members from this city, Biron, Port Edwards and Nekoma. Every church is represented as the movement is strictly non-sectarian. The following men besides the officers, make up the council: E. B. Redford, L. E. Nash, Otto Roenigk, J. R. Ragan, Joe Wheeler, Nate Anderson, C. G. Ekelund, Wm. Giese, I. P. Witter, Harry Whiteley, F. H. Eberhardt, H. F. Gaudin, J. Schroeder, G. W. Wade, G. O. Babcock, J. A. Cohen, C. W. Schwede, Louis Panter, Theo. W. Brazeau, F. J. Wood, R. L. Nash, R. P. Payne, Gilbert Marvin, A. P. Midthun and L. Smith.

L. F. Kinister who has been acting as Scout Executive for the National Council, was employed to conduct the camp at this time and has taken up his quarters in the new Citizens bank building.

In three months time, this organization has been built up to a large number and is now one of the largest in the state.

When people in this city saw what the Scout movement was, they stood still and they began to talk about it. The result has been the organization of this council, to help and co-operate in the making of better citizens.

At most, platonic friendship. Never to saddle themselves with a wife, sweetheart or anything of that kind that would call for a life lease on a ranch or a vine covered cottage or any of that tommyrot.

To be always ready in case of war to respond to their country's call and have no encumbrances to be left for the government to support.

It seems, however, that the boys failed to consult the fair sex when they made their vow. One of the boys they have been flanked from the ranks until at the present time there are but three of the lone lorn bachelors left. Those who have fallen from grace are: Frank Fritzinger, Geo. Houston, Bobbie Nash, Charley Foote, Banty Bandelin, Muldoon, Mulroy, Joe Gans Natwick, and last, but not least, Puss Eriore.

The boys, in their appeal for recruits, want it distinctly understood that no girls, old maids or widows need apply.

Signed:
J. F. Carrigan, President.
C. M. Nash, Vice President.

CHANGES RECOMMENDED

E. W. Callen, assistant building inspector of the industrial commission, has recommended some changes in the Lincoln high school, following a recent inspection that he made at that building. It seems that the exits from the main room are too narrow and that the change in the windows so as to make the fire escapes more accessible and installation of additional fire alarms.

HELLUP! HELLUP! RECRUITS WANTED

The Tribune is in receipt of an appeal for help from the Bachelor's Club of this city which is apparently on the verge of extinction, and if recruits are not forthcoming very soon, it is evident that one of the most remarkable and distinguished organizations in this city, and probably the country, and possibly the state or nation, will pass into the realm of things that are charged up against him.

Years ago the club was numbered among the benefactors of mankind, many farmers claiming that the little corn they ate was more than compensated for by the large amount of grain which they devoured during the summer season. Whether this is true or not, cannot be stated, but it is a fact that the club has been adjudged a deer, the one advantage for the hunter being that the club can generally be seen a greater distance and makes more noise, but he is a smaller object to shoot at and is generally to be killed with a shotgun, which shortens the range very materially.

The one objection that has been put up against the plan is that some of our sportsmen who are a trifle color blind, might, while trailing a crow, flush a prairie chicken or partridge, and before they had discovered the difference, shoot the game bird, thinking it was a crow. Any proceeding of this kind would subject the crow hunter to a fine or imprisonment, and if discovered, cause him much embarrassment among his friends here in town for several weeks after the event. Of course, it is not supposed that any hunter would make such a mistake wilfully.

If the club is organized it is probable that some sort of prize will be offered to the one who brings in the greatest number of recruits, with possibly teams organized for competition. In case the proposition goes thru it is probable that crow hounds will be in great demand and anybody having a dog of this breed is requested to communicate with the Tribune at his earliest convenience.

Rev. J. J. Brennan, pastor of St. John's Catholic church at Wausau for the past twelve years, has resigned his pastorate there and has been assigned to a parish at Shullsburg, near the home of his mother. He will be succeeded by Rev. E. P. O'Toole of Ellsworth.

Dr. J. M. Bischoff of Stevens Point, who has practiced dentistry in that city during the past several years, has sold out his business to Dr. W. P. Mailer of Galesville. Dr. Bischoff will make a trip thru the east, after which he will return to Stevens Point. BACK FROM FORT SHERIDAN
Steve Schwelke, who has been at Fort Sheridan with the officers reserve corps, returned to this city on Tuesday, and from here goes to the city to visit his people for a short time, after which he will enlist in the regular army. At Fort Sheridan the selection of officers is made from those in attendance, and of the number there, only about one-third can be taken on that there are about two-thirds of the boys that are bound to be sent back home no matter how hard they work nor how anxious they are to go.

DYNAMITE USED IN BLOWING STUMPS

UPPER WISCONSIN FARMERS USE EXPLOSIVE WITH VERY GOOD SUCCESS.

GET LAND-CLEARING FEVER

Hundreds Attend Demonstrations Held By College of Agriculture—Many Acres of Land Cleared and Planted With Food Crops.

Madison—Tons of dynamite have been shipped into upper Wisconsin this spring to blow out stumps.

This unusual interest in land clearing is a direct result of the stump-pulling demonstrations held in that section of the state last year under the direction of the college of agriculture.

Thousands of farmers were present at these demonstrations and got the land-clearing fever. They learned how to manipulate stump-pulling machines and how to handle dynamite. As a result this spring has witnessed the uprooting of thousands of "old settlers" and the planting of a vast number of acres of new land to wheat, oats, rutabagas and other food crops.

The agricultural agents in out-of-the-land counties are enthusiastic over the extensive land clearing activities of the farmers, and predict that an appreciable increase in the food output of these counties will be the result.

"I have just completed the little task of distributing about twenty tons of dynamite to the farmers of this county," one agent says. "It is going to clear up hundreds of acres of stump land, most of which will be seeded with wheat, oats, rutabagas, and other food crops that will greatly increase the food production of this section."

The bankers of upper Wisconsin are active in helping to make it easy for farmers to get dynamite and are very enthusiastic over the work.

"A few days ago a car of dynamite was unloaded here and one banker remarked that he wished there were another to distribute. Farmers wanted all they could get and more. There is no need of saying what this means. Every pound of dynamite in the hands of a farmer means more land," says another county agent in his report.

BANKERS ELECT W. M. POST

State Association Closes Convention After Naming Milwaukee Man to Head Organization.

Madison—The Wisconsin Bankers' association closed its annual convention here by the election of William M. Post, Milwaukee, as president to succeed J. Russell Wheeler of Columbus.

Other officers elected follow: Vice-president—J. J. Perry, Fond du Lac; Treasurer—W. A. von der Grintz, Mosinee; Executive committee—Frank Drew, St. Thomas; John Rose, Green Bay; W. H. Boyle, Platteville; George D. Bartlett, was re-elected secretary by the executive committee.

A resolution stating that since the American Bankers' association was neglecting the needs and demands of the country bankers, the delegates approved the formation of the proposed Country Bankers' league, was tabled.

H. A. Moehlenpau, Clinton, member of the legislative committee, asserted that the country bankers were now organizing to assert their rights in the association of which they form 75 per cent.

BADGER FOOD HEAD NAMED

Frank Bacon of Milwaukee Recommended By Governor Philipp at Request from Hoover.

Madison—Frank P. Bacon of the Cutler-Hammer company, Milwaukee, may become the Herbert Hoover of Wisconsin.

Mr. Hoover, international food administrator, wired Gov. Philipp to recommend the name of a man to act as his representative of food director in this state. The governor wired back the name of Mr. Bacon. The formal appointment of Mr. Bacon is likely to follow the governor's recommendation.

In the working out of the great food conservation program in this country, Mr. Hoover's department in Washington will become the center of all activities, with the several states as a branch business house. The different states will have their own food director, with whom Mr. Hoover will confer.

Big Berry Shipments. Sparta—Between 450 and 500 crates of strawberries are being shipped from Sparta daily.

Charged With Draft Evasion.

Marinette—Ignatz, Louis and Alex Shovranki, brothers, of Wausau, have been taken into custody here charged with failing to register for the selective draft. All claim they are not within the age limits.

Have Operation to Serve U. S.

Marinette—Two Marinette men, Charles I. Wells and Arvid Webeck, underwent operations for hernia in the hope of their being accepted for military service.

ASKS ALL TO DO THEIR BIT

Defense Council Urges All Whose Time Is Not Fully Occupied to Register With Labor Agent.

Madison—Idlers are slackers! The moral tone of every community ought to make it decidedly uncomfortable for any idle person this season.

Such is the sentiment of the State Council of Defense, which finds that farmers throughout the state need extra help in cultivating and harvesting crops. It also finds that experienced farm help is not available. There are, however, many boys and men whose time is unoccupied or only partly occupied. They are not doing their full patriotic duty unless they are busy all the time at some productive employment.

The slogan of the State Council of Defense is "Every man to a job." This means that all boys and young men must work. It means that ministers, business men, clerks, and others whose whole time is not occupied must use their spare hours and days and their vacation periods.

Let every such person register with the labor agent of his County Council of Defense. Then let him work when he is notified that his services are needed.

There are jobs for all, and to spare. Don't be a slacker!

PLAN POTATO DRYING PLANT

Announcement Made That Rhinelander Is to Get Experimental Factory—Backed by Government.

Rhinelander—Rhinelander is to be the home of a new industry, an innovation not only in Wisconsin but in the country, according to an announcement by the advancement association here. A potato drying factory, the product of which is potato flakes, is the new institution which is expected to bring considerably increased industrial activity to this city.

According to the announcement the government is back of this project, and a plant now in operation in Arlington, Va., which was erected for experimental purposes by the government, is to be moved here. The new process of treating potatoes is said to be in line with recent efforts toward food economy, and it is pointed out that the small tubers and culls which heretofore have been practically a total waste, can be utilized in the potato drying plant and turned into a marketable food product.

One of the country's prominence as a potato producing community is said to be the reason for locating the new plant here. The factory will be the first of its kind in the United States, it is understood, but the process has been developed extensively in Germany.

CLEARY ASKS MORE CAUTION

Sends Out Appeal to Wisconsin People to Guard Against Loss of Food and Equipment from Fire.

Madison—Declaring that three-fourths of the fires in the state, which caused a loss of $888,765 in agricultural produce alone during 1916, could have been prevented by ordinary care and watchfulness, M. J. Cleary, state insurance commissioner, has issued an appeal to the people of the state to give every precaution this year to guard against loss of food and equipment so necessary at this time in the successful prosecution of the war.

The fire marshal says that lightning still is the farmer's worst enemy, but declares that it can be robbed of its sting by a good lightning rod system, properly installed and well grounded. Attention is called to the danger of allowing children to play with matches, smoking in farm buildings and around stacks, carelessness with lamps, lanterns, gasoline, defective stovepipes, refuse, and other fire hazards.

MANY GIVEN EMPLOYMENT

Four Offices in State Refer 6,108 Persons to Positions—A New Record Is Established.

Madison—The month of May was a banner month for the free employment office of the state. During May the four free employment offices conducted by the industrial commission in Milwaukee, Superior, Oshkosh and La Crosse, referred more men to positions than during any previous month since they were organized. The number of men referred to positions during the month was 6,108, as against 4,300 in April, and 5,369 in May of last year. Orders were received from employers for 6,702 workmen and 5,945 applications for work were made.

The largest number of men placed were general laborers, but there were also many skilled mechanics. Among the latter were a considerable number of carpenters, machinists and boiler-makers, who went to government navy yards and arsenals or to private shipbuilding plants. The number of farm hands placed was 233.

Truck Driver Jailed.

Racine—William Admatt, truck driver, who ran down and killed Mrs. Mary Borg and her son, James Schuch, was denied a new trial and ordered to pay a fine of $200 and serve three months in the county jail.

Dies from Hand Scratch.

Janesville—Mayhew V. Loudon, 80 years old, resident of Janesville for seventy years, a veteran of the Fifth Wisconsin, former noted band leader, died from a scratch on his hand.

More Troops Arrive.

Sparta—One thousand more soldiers arrived at the military reservation here, making a total of 8,000 men now in training at this point. Eight hundred workmen are rushing the construction of barracks and stables.

City Market Succeeds.

Beloit—An experiment with a cheap fish market under the direction of the city proved so successful that an order for a regular supply of this product has been placed.

Valve Head Explosion Kills Oiler.

Green Bay—The explosion of a valve head in the power house of the state reformatory resulted in the death of Willes Miles, Milwaukee, an inmate assigned as an oiler. Henry Keyes, Green Bay, an engineer, is in a critical condition from scalds.

Remove Marble from Intestines.

Neenah—Physicians who operated on Frank Schmidt for appendicitis found a marble lodged in the intestine.

NEW SCHOOL BOARD NAMED BY PHILIPP

SENDS FIVE NAMES TO SENATE FOR BUDGET MAKING BODY OF INSTITUTIONS.

NEW STATE ACT IS FOLLOWED

Mrs. Meta Berger of Milwaukee Only Woman Chosen for Position—No Favoritism Is Shown in Making Appointments.

Madison—Gov. Philipp has sent to the senate the appointment of five members of the central board of education, which is the budget making body for the state's educational institutions.

The appointments: Mrs. Meta Berger, wife of Victor L. Berger, Milwaukee, term ending Aug. 1, 1919; C. B. Bird, Wausau, term ending Aug. 1, 1918; Herman Grotzsch, Baraboo, term ending Aug. 1, 1920; Charles Hill, Rosendale, term ending Aug. 1, 1920; Frank P. Hixon, La Crosse, term ending Aug. 1, 1922.

The appointments were made in conformity with the bill for the reorganization of the central board of education. In addition to these members, the board will include a member to be named by the university regents and one to be named by the normal school regents, the governor, secretary of public instruction and superintendents of public instruction also being members.

Mrs. Berger, the only woman on the board, is prominent in educational matters in the city of Milwaukee. Mr. Bird, republican, has been associated in the practice of law with Supreme Court Justice Rosenberg. Mr. Grotzsch, democrat, formerly served on the state board of control. Mr. Hill, prohibition, is widely known as a dealer in high grade cattle. Mr. Hixon, republican, is a lumberman. From a political standpoint the governor played no favorites in making these appointments.

Throughout this session of the legislature there was sharp opposition to the administration bill to reorganize the central board, but the governor's plan to take the board out of politics, appealed to a majority of the members of the legislature.

STORM DOES HEAVY DAMAGE

Property Loss Estimated at $500,000. Fifteen Persons Injured. Two Trains Ditched by Washouts.

Madison—Fifteen persons were injured, hundreds were driven from their homes, bridges were destroyed, steam and electric roads undermined, barns and outbuildings swept away by scores, nine places hit by lightning, and an estimated property loss of $500,000 is the toll exacted by the storm which struck Milwaukee and vicinity.

The swollen waters of the Menomonee river reached heights of twenty-five and thirty feet at Pigsville and Wauwatosa, where the greatest loss was entailed.

Six hundred feet of the Milwaukee track was washed out east of Wyocena and the Pioneer Limited, which left Portage at midnight, went into the ditch near the station at Rio. The engine and one car were buried in the mud, sand and water. No one was injured.

The engine and four cars of the Portage-Horicon combination passenger train went into the ditch near Pardeeville, on the northern division of the Milwaukee road, and the Madison-Portage train was held in the latter city several hours on account of a washout at Silcville. It was reported that about thirty miles of track between the two cities was under water.

The hail and rain were reported the worst in the history of Portage. About five inches of water fell, according to the government weather bureau. No serious damage resulted to crops, it was reported.

Agents for Two More Counties. Madison—Two more counties have voted to employ agricultural representatives. The supervisors of Green Lake and Shawano counties have recommended to the Regents of the University the appointment of O. B. Zeigler and Merion Moore respectively. Twenty-five counties of the state are now supplied with permanent county agricultural representatives. This is the full quota allowed by law for the year ending December 31, 1917. Three more, or a total of 28 representatives in all, are allowed up to the end of 1918, according to the action taken by the present legislature.

Train Kills Unknown Man.

Racine—The body of an unknown man was found on the tracks of the Milwaukee road between Corliss and Tuskeville.

Graduates Before She Is 15.

Manitowish—Miss Josephine Patchen, not yet 15-years old, is the youngest graduate of a high school in the history of the city. Miss Patchen completed the eighth grade and high school course—five years' work—in three years.

Edgerton People Liberal.

Edgerton—This city of 3,000 population has subscribed so far over $4,100 for the Red Cross. No single subscription was for more than $100.

Boys to Get Calves.

Wausau—The Marathon County Bankers' association is arranging to purchase pure bred or grade calves to be furnished boys who have requested them. The animals will be distributed at cost.

Signs Education Bill.

Madison—Gov. Philipp has signed the Whitely bill reorganizing the state board of education and limiting its powers over the finances of the state university and state normal schools.

Thirty Guards Released.

Neenah—Thirty members of Company I, First Wisconsin Infantry, have been granted discharges because of their being married or having dependents. A drive has been started to recruit the company up to full war strength.

Stephenson Gives $1,000.

Marinette—Former Senator Isaac Stephenson heads the list of donors to the Red Cross fund in Marinette county with a subscription of $1,000.

NAME DRAFT BOARDS

WILSON APPOINTS LOCAL BODIES NAMED BY GOVERNORS TO HEAR EXEMPTION CLAIMS.

REGULATIONS ARE DUE SOON

Report From the White House Says That Men Will Be Selected Not Only for the Army but for All Other War Work.

Washington, June 28.—President Wilson on Tuesday appointed the local boards named by the governors to hear exemption claims on the first draft, by which 650,000 are to be selected for the army.

The rules governing exemptions have not yet been issued, but will be soon, as the work of selecting the army may be begun next week.

In a great majority of the cases the personnel of the boards shows that President Wilson followed the suggestion of army officials that city and county officials be utilized.

The president, however, had asked the governors of the various states to nominate candidates for the boards, and it may be assumed that the boards as announced have the approval, not only of the president, but of the state executives.

In New York city and Philadelphia the boards have not yet been announced.

The 24 states in which committees are complete, with those exceptions, are: Washington, West Virginia, Utah, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, Minnesota, Nevada, Montana, Nebraska, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Colorado, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas, Tennessee, Connecticut, Illinois, New York and Pennsylvania.

Exemption regulations were whipped into final shape at the cabinet meeting. President Wilson probably will promulgate them soon.

With few exceptions, the rules are the same as contained in the draft submitted to President Wilson by Provost General Crowder. It is understood the president eliminated certain exemptions, believing every man in the nation must do his share in the war, whether on the battle front or not, and work within the country on war duties will be found for many unphysically fit to go into the trenches.

Information emanating from the White House during the last two days indicates the draft will be much heavier than has been suspected. Instead of merely picking men for the army, many will be drafted for other war work.

RED CROSS REACHES GOAL

Officials at Washington Say $100,000,000 Was Given Fund During Week's Campaign.

Washington, June 27.—The Red Cross announced on Monday night that it had reached its goal of $100,000,000 in donations.

"Pershing day" brought the campaign to a spirited close. Reports from nearly 1,000 cities showed subscriptions during the 24 hours exceeded $15,000,000. Red Cross workers in New York reported $37,000,000 of its allotted $40,000,000, but the complete figures were confidently expected to exceed the allotment and reach possibly as high as $45,000,000.

Outside of New York city the figures for the country by sections were as follows: New England, $8,000,000; Atlantic states, $16,000,000; Southern states, $4,000,000; Central states, $22,000,000; Western states, $10,000,000. Total, $60,000,000.

DYNAMITE USED IN BLOWING STUMPS

UPPER WISCONSIN FARMERS USE
EXPLOSIVE WITH VERY GOOD SUCCESS.

NET LAND-CLEARING FEVER

Hundreds Attend Demonstrations Held
By College of Agriculture—Many Acres of Land Cleared and Planted With Food Crops.

Madison—Tons of dynamite have been shipped into upper Wisconsin this spring to blow out stumps. This unusual interest in land clearing is a direct result of the stumping demonstrations held in that section of the state last year under the direction of the college of agriculture.

Hundreds of farmers were present at these demonstrations and got the land-clearing fever. They learned how to manipulate stumping machines and how to handle dynamite. As a result this spring has witnessed the uprooting of thousands of "old settlers" and the planting of a vast number of acres of new land to wheat, oats, rutabagas and other food crops.

The agricultural agencies over the state are enthusiastic over the extensive land clearing activities of the farmers, and predict that an appreciable increase in the food output of these counties will be the result. "I have just completed the little task of distributing about twenty tons of dynamite to the farmers of this county," one agent says. "It is going to clear up hundreds of acres of stump land, most of which will be seeded with wheat, oats, rutabagas, and other food crops that will greatly increase the food production of this section."

Bankers of upper Wisconsin are active in helping to make it easy for farmers to get dynamite and are very enthusiastic over the work. "A few days ago a car of dynamite was unloaded here and one banker remarked that he wished there were other such cars. Farmers wanted all they could get and more. There is no need of saying what this means. Every pound of dynamite in the hands of a farmer means more land," says another county agent in his report.

BANKERS ELECT W. M. POST

State Association Closes Convention
After Naming Milwaukee Men to Head Organization.

Milwaukee—The Wisconsin Bankers' association closed its annual convention here by the election of William M. Post, Milwaukee, as president to succeed J. Russell Wheeler of Columbus.

Other officers elected followed: Vice-president—E. J. Perry, Fond du Lac; Treasurer—W. A. von Berg, Madison; Executive council—Frank Drew, St. Tomah; John Rose, Green Bay; W. H. Boyle, Plattville; George D. Barlett, was re-elected secretary by the executive committee. Clinton, member of the legislative committee, asserted that the country bankers were now organizing to assert their rights in the association of which they form 75 per cent.

BADGER FOOD HEAD NAMED

Frank Bacon of Milwaukee Recommended by Governor Philipp at Request from Hoover.

Madison—Frank P. Bacon of the Cutler-Hammer company, Milwaukee, may become the Herbert Hoover of Wisconsin.

Mr. Hoover, international food administrator, wired Gov. Philipp to recommend the name of a man to act as his representative or food director in this state. The governor wired back the name of Mr. Bacon. The formal appointment of Mr. Bacon is likely to follow the governor's recommendation.

At the working out of the great food conservation program in this country, Mr. Hoover's department in Washington will become the center of all activities, with each of the several states as a branch business house. The different states will have their own food director, with whom Mr. Hoover will confer.

The appointments were made in conformity with the bill for the reorganization of the central board of education. In addition to these members, the board will include a member to be named by the university regents and one to be named by the normal school regents, the governor, secretary of state and the superintendent of public instruction also being members.

Mrs. Berger, the only woman on the board, is prominent in educational matters in the city of Milwaukee. Mr. Hillen, republican, has been associated in the practice of law with Supreme Court Justice Rosenberry. Mr. Gropphorst, democrat, formerly served on the state board of control. Mr. Hill, prohibition, is widely known as a dealer in high grade cattle. Mr. Bird, republican, is a lumberman. From a political standpoint the governor planned no favorites in making these appointments.

Throughout this session of the legislature there was sharp opposition to the administration bill to incorporate the central board, but the governor's plan to take the board out of politics appealed to a majority of the members of the legislature.

STORM DOES HEAVY DAMAGE

Property Loss Estimated at $500,000.
Fifteen Persons Injured—Two Trains Ditched by Washouts.

Milwaukee Fifteen persons were injured, hundreds were driven from their homes, bridges were destroyed, steam and electric roads undermined, barns and outbuildings swept away by scores, nine places hit by lightning, and an estimated property loss of $500,000 was the toll exacted by the storm which struck Milwaukee and vicinity.

The swollen waters of the Menominee river reached heights of twenty-five and thirty feet at Platteville and Waupun, where the greatest loss was suffered. Six hundred feet of the Milwaukee road track was washed out east of Wauwatosa and the Pioneer Limited, which left Portage at midnight, went into the ditch near the station at Rio. The engine and one car were buried in the mud, sand and water. No one injured.

The engine and four cars of the Portage-Limited combination passenger train went into the ditch near the Milwaukee road, and the Madison-Portage train was held in the last city several hours on account of a washout at Silvestre. It was reported that about thirty miles of track between the two cities was under water. The hail and rain were reported the worst in the history of Portage. About five inches of water fell, according to the government weather bureau. No serious damage resulted to crops, it was reported.

Agents for Two More Counties.

Madison—Two more counties have voted to employ agricultural representatives. The supervisors of Green Lake and Shawano counties have recommended to the Regents of the University the appointment of O. H. Ziemann and Merion Moore respectively. Twenty-five counties of the state are now supplied with permanent county agricultural representatives. This is the full quota allowed by law for the year ending December 31, 1917. Three more, or a total of 28 representatives in all, are allowed up to the end of 1918, according to the action taken by the present legislature.

Train Kills Unknown Man.

Racine—The body of an unknown man was found on the tracks of the Milwaukee road between Corliss and Truesdell.

Graduates Before She Is 15.

Manitowish—Miss Josephine Patchon, not yet 15 years old, is the youngest graduate of a high school in the history of the city. Miss Patchon completed the eighth grade and high school course—five years' work—in three years.

Edgerton People Liberal.

Edgerton—This city of 3,000 population has subscribed so far for $4,100 for the Red Cross. No single subscription was for more than $100.

Boys to Get Calves.

Wausau—The Marathon County Bankers' association is arranging to purchase pure bred or grade calves to be furnished boys who have requested them. The animals will be distributed at cost.

Signs Education Bill.

Madison—Gov. Philipp has signed the Whitte bill reorganizing the state board of education and limiting its powers over the finances of the state university and state normal schools.

Thirty Guards Released.

Neenah—Thirty members of Company I, First Wisconsin Infantry, have been granted discharges because of their being married or having dependents. A drive has been started to recruit the company up to full war strength.

Stephenson Gives $1,000.

Marinette—Former Senator Isaac Stephenson donates the list of donors to the Red Cross fund in Marinette county with a subscription of $1,000.

NAME DRAFT BOARDS

WILSON APPOINTS LOCAL BODIES
NAMED BY GOVERNORS TO HEAR EXEMPTION CLAIMS.

REGULATIONS ARE DUE SOON

Report From the White House Says That Men Will Be Selected Not Only for the Army but for All Other War Work.

Washington, June 25.—President Wilson on Tuesday appointed the local boards named by the governors to hear exemption claims on the first draft, by which 650,000 are to be selected for the army.

The rules governing exemptions have not yet been issued, but will be soon, as the work of selecting the army may be begun next week.

In a great majority of the cases the personnel of the boards shows that President Wilson followed the suggestions of army officials that city and county officials be utilized.

The president, however, had asked the governors of the various states to nominate candidates for the boards, and it may be assumed that the boards as announced have the approval, not only of the president, but of the state executives.

In New York city and Philadelphia the boards have not yet been announced.

The 24 states in which committees are complete, with those exceptions, are: Washington, West Virginia, Utah, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, Minnesota, Nevada, Montana, Nebraska, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Colorado, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas, Tennessee, Connecticut, Illinois, New York and Pennsylvania.

Exemption regulations were whittled into final shape at the cabinet meeting. President Wilson probably will promulgate them soon.

With few exceptions, the rules are the same as those contained in the draft submitted to President Wilson by Provost General Crowder. It is understood the president eliminated certain exemptions, believing every man in the nation must do his share in the war, whether on the battle front or not, and would within the country on duty will be found for many a day physically to go into the trenches. Information emanating from the White House during the last two days indicates the draft will be much heavier than has been suspected. Instead of merely picking men for the army, many will be drafted for other war work.

RED CROSS REACHES GOAL

Officials at Washington Say $100,000,000 Was Given Fund During Week's Campaign.

Washington, June 27.—The Red Cross announced on Monday night that it had reached its goal of $100,000,000 in donations.

"Forsling day" brought the campaign to a spirited close. Reports from nearly 1,000 cities showed subscriptions during the 24 hours exceeded $10,000,000. Red Cross workers in New York reported $2,000,000 of the total $40,000,000, but the complete figures were confidently expected to exceed the allotment and reach possibly as high as $45,000,000.

Outside of New York city the figures for the country by sections were as follows:

New England, $8,000,000; Atlantic states, $15,000,000; Southern states, $4,000,000; Central states, $22,000,000; Western states, $10,000,000. Total, $49,000,000.

BRITISH CLOSE IN ON LENS

Canadians Capture Village of La Coudrette—French Capture Trenches and 300 Prisoners.

Canadian Army Headquarters in France, June 28.—Canadian troops on Tuesday entered the village of La Coudrette which is only one mile south of Lens. The Germans have withdrawn from this neighborhood from a line about one and three-quarters miles long.

Paris, June 28.—The French made a surprise attack northwest of Arras at night, after brief artillery preparation. The war office announces the capture of the entire first line German trench system, which were held against the British for several days. More than 800 prisoners were taken.

ENLIST NOW!

Your president calls you! The army wants you! The country needs you! Come on you loyal Americans and let's free the world, that our children may live in peace.

Honors Killer of Children.

Amsterdam, June 27.—Captain Brandenburg, who led the German air raid over London in which almost one hundred persons, including many women and children were killed, has been decorated with the Order-Pour le Merite.

Warsaw University Closed.

Berlin, June 27.—The Vossische Zeitung claims that Gen. Hans H. von Heeseler, governor general of German occupied territory in Russia, has closed Warsaw university and the Polytechnic institute because of a student strike.

U. S. Ship Guard Brazil.

Illo de Janeiro, Brazil, June 28.—Admiral William B. Caperton, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet of the United States navy, and the members of his staff have been received with honors here.

Liquor Barred to Army Men.

Montreal, Quebec, June 26.—No army men in uniforms will be served with liquor hereafter in this hotel, restaurant or shop in Quebec, under the provisions of the law recently passed by the provincial legislature.

Draft Case Students Guilty.

Washington, June 25.—An extraordinary session of the United States Supreme court on the first of the 10-100 submarine cases showed satisfactory results in every respect. The hull was completed in a few weeks' time.

New Diver Chaser Succeeds.

Washington, June 25.—A preliminary report from the New York navy yard on trials of the first of the 10-100 submarine chasers shows satisfactory results in every respect. The hull was completed in a few weeks' time.

Can Frigate's Nation's Cry.

Washington, June 25.—Secretary Houston appealed to American housewives to assist the national food conservation movement by canning or preserving perishable fruits and vegetables.

VISCOUNT KANEKO

Viscount Kaneko is president of the American-Japan society which is doing much to promote friendly relations between the two countries.

OFFER THREE BILLIONS

LIBERTY LOAN IS OVERSUBSCRIBED $1,035,225,850.

Nearly 4,000,000 Americans Dig Into Their Pockets to Aid Uncle Sam.

Washington, June 25.—Nearly 4,000,000 persons subscribed $3,035,225,850 to the Liberty Loan, it was officially announced at the treasury department. Statistics compiled at the department estimate 3,000,000 persons, or 90 per cent, subscribed in amounts ranging from $50 to $10,000. Twenty-one persons, of whom John D. Rockefeller was one, subscribed in amounts of $5,000,000 or more. The aggregate subscriptions of these vast lists was $188,780,000.

The subscriptions by districts follow:

Boston ..... $ 332,447,600
New York ..... 1,386,788,400
Philadelphia ..... 1,386,788,400
Cleveland ..... 286,148,700
Richmond ..... 109,737,100
Atlanta ..... 57,978,550
Chicago ..... 357,195,950
St. Louis ..... 80,131,700
Minneapolis ..... 70,225,500
Kansas City ..... 91,758,850
Dallas ..... 48,084,350
San Francisco ..... 175,023,000

Three cities, Minneapolis, Kansas City and Atlanta, fell behind the minimum figures they expected to hit. Secretary McAdoo announced that the allotment will be as follows:

Up to and including subscriptions of $10,000, 100 per cent, or $1,200,654,850.
Over $10,000 up to and including $100,000, 80 per cent, but not less than $10,000 bonds, or $55,901,850.
Over $100,000 up to and including $250,000, 45 per cent, but not less than $25,000 bonds, or $90,205,000.
Over $250,000 up to and including $500,000, 30 per cent, but not less than $125,000 bonds, or $184,881,800.
Over $500,000 up to and including $1,000,000, 25 per cent, but not less than $250,000 bonds, or $89,205,000.
Over $1,000,000 up to and including $10,000,000, 21 per cent, or $9,501,000.
Subscriptions of $25,000,000, 20.22 per cent, or $110,110,000.
One subscription of $25,250,000, 20.17 per cent, or $5,093,650.

COAL BARONS YIELD TO U. S.

Agree, After Warning, to Sell Their Product at Fair and Reasonable Price.

Washington, June 28.—As a result of federal forces sent in motion here, 400 coal operators, representing the great bulk of both bituminous and anthracite, pledged themselves to sell their product at a fair and reasonable price to be fixed with the approval of the national defense council's coal committee. The action of the coal barons followed an all-day conference with defense council's coal committee. They were frankly warned by Secretary of the Interior Lano, Secretary of the Navy Daniels, and J. Franklin Ford of the federal trade commission that unless they themselves established a fair selling price their output would be taken over by the government.

Americans to Register for Army.

London, June 28.—Robert P. Skinner, American consul general, has issued an appeal to all Americans in the United Kingdom liable to military service under the act recently passed by congress, asking them to register.

Army-Navy Ball Game Off.

Washington, June 28.—The great Army-Navy football game will not be played this year. By order of Secretary of War Baker all athletic games between West Point and other colleges are abolished for this year.

ROSE GETS A JOB AS CHORUS GIRL IN A MUSICAL SHOW BUT THE TEST SHE HAS TO UNDERGO IS SOMEWHAT EMBARRASSING

Synopsis.—Rose Stanton, a young woman living in modest circumstances, marries wealthy Rodney Aldrich for more than a year lives in luxury and happiness. This life disgusts her. She hopes that when her honeymoon comes, the job of being a mother will keep her busy and happy. But she has twins and their care is put into the hands of a trained nurse. Intense dissatisfaction with the useless life of luxury returns to Rose. She determines to go out and earn her living, to make good on her own hook. She and Rodney have some bitter scenes wrangling over this so-called whim. Rose leaves home, however, moves into a cheap rooming house district and gets a job in a theater.

CHAPTER XVI—Continued.

"What professional experience have you had?" he asked.

"I haven't had any."

"He almost smiled when she stopped there. "Any amateur experience?" he inquired.

"Quite a lot," said Rose, "paganisms and things, and two or three little plays."

"Can you dance?"

"Yes," said Rose.

He said he supposed ballroom dancing was what she meant, whereupon she told him she was a pretty good ballroom dancer, but that it was gymnastic dancing she had in mind.

"All right," he said. "See if you can do this. Watch me, and then imitate me exactly."

In the intensity of her absorption in his questions and her own answers to them, she had never given a thought to the bystanders. But now as they fell back to give him room, she swept a glance across their faces. They all wore smiles of sorts. There was something amusing about this—something out of the regular routine. A little knot of choruses girls halted in the net of going out the wide doors, and stood watching. Was it just a hoax? The suppressed, unnatural silence sounded like it. But at what John Galbraith did, one of the bystanders gasped outright.

It wasn't pretty, the dance step he executed—a sort of stiff-legged skip accompanied by a vulgar hip wriggle and concluding with a straight-out sidewise kick. A wick disgust clutched at Rose as she watched—an utter repulsion from the whole loathly business.

"Well?" he asked, turning to her as he finished. He wasn't smiling at all.

"I'm not dressed to do that," she said.

"I know you're not," he admitted coolly; "but it can be done. Pick up your skirts and do it as you are—it you really want a job."

There was just a faint edge of contempt in that last phrase and, mercifully, it roused her anger. A blaze kindled in her blue eyes, and two spots of vivid color defined themselves in her cheeks.

She caught up her skirts as he had told her to do, executed without compromise the stiff-legged skip and the wriggle, and finished with a horizontal sidewise kick that matched his own. Then, panting, trembling a little, she stood looking straight into his face.

Galbraith was staring at her with a look which expressed, at first, clear astonishment, but gradually complicated itself with other emotions—confusion, a bit of whimsical amusement. That gleam, a perfectly honest, kindly one, decided Rose to take him on trust. He wasn't a brute, however it might suit his purpose to act like one.

"We've been rehearsing this place two weeks," he said presently, looking away from her when she began to talk, "and I couldn't take anyone into the chorus now whom I'd have to teach the rudiments of dancing to. That's why my test was necessary. Also, I couldn't take anybody who had come down here—for a lark."

With that, Rose understood the whole thing. John Galbraith had classified her, or thought he had, as a well-bred young girl who, in a moment of pique or schief, had decided it would be fun to go on the stage. The test he had applied wasn't from that point of view, unnecessarily cruel. The girl he had taken her for would, on being ordered to repeat the grotesque bit of vulgarity of his, have drawn her dignity about her like a cloak and gone back in a chastened spirit to the world where she belonged.

A gorgeous apparition came sweeping by them just now, on a line from the dressing room to the door—a figure that, with regal deliberation, was gliding a blue broadcloth coat, trimmed with white, over an authentic Calcutta frock. The georgette hat on top of it was one that Rose had just seen in a Michigan avenue shop. It had found its proper buyer—fulfilled its destiny.

tells me Galbraith's going to put you with us in the sextette."

Dave was the thick pianist, whom Rose had found in the highest degree obnoxious. His announcement was entitled to consideration, even though it couldn't be backed up. There were three mediums and three big girls in the sextette (Edna Larson was one of the mediums, and so needn't fear replacement by Rose, who was a big girl). Besides appearing in two numbers as a background to one of the principals, they had one all to themselves, a fact which constituted them a sort of super-chorus.

But the limitation that Rose was to be promoted to this select inner circle, didn't, as it first came to her, give her any pleasure. Somehow, as Larson told her about it, she could fairly see the knowing, gony grin that would have been Dave's comment on this prophecy. And, in the same flash, she interpreted the Larson girl's look, half incredulous, half satirical.

"I haven't heard anything about being put in the sextette," she said quickly, "and I don't believe I will be."

"Well, I don't know why not." There was a new warmth in the medium's voice. Rose had won a victory here, and she knew it. "You've got the looks and the shape; you can dance better than any of the big girls, or us mediums, either. And if he doesn't put that big Benedict lemon into the back line where she belongs, and give you her place in the sextette, it will be because he's afraid of her drag."

Rose forebore to inquire into the nature of the Benedict girl's drag. Whatever it may have been, John Galbraith was evidently not afraid of it, because as she dismissed the very idea, calling the rest of the chorus for twelve the following morning, and the sextette for eleven, he told Rose to report at the earlier hour.

The chorus was probably unanimous in its view of this promotion. When Grant came back and to her humble plea in vain, and later, when Benedict was relegated to a place in the back line, the natural explanation was that Galbraith was crazy about the new girl. The only way she had of refusing the assumption would be by making good so intensely that they'd be compelled to see that her promotion had been inevitable.

It was in this spirit, with blazing cheeks and eyes, that she attacked the next morning's rehearsal. At its end Galbraith said to her: "You're doing very well indeed, Dave. If I could have caught you ten years ago I could have made a dancer of you."

It was a very real, unqualified compliment, and as such Rose understood it. Because, by dancing, he meant something very different from a principle and exchanged glances with Dave at the piano. They didn't understand. To them, the compliment seemed to have been delivered with the left hand. And somehow, an amused recognition of the fact that they didn't understand, as well as of the fact that she did, flashed across from John Galbraith's eyes to hers.

The impetus and direction of Rose's career dated from two incidents that might just as well not have happened—two of the funniest of small chances.

The first of these chances concerned itself with Edna Larson and her bad voice. It was a bad voice only when she talked. When she sang it had a gorgeous, thrilling ring, and volume enough for four. Besides, she had an infallible ear and sang squarely in tune. But when she spoke she sounded trying to play the slide trombone. She was simply dumb, it seemed, to the subtleties of intonation.

Daily, she reduced Galbraith to helpless wrath. Evidently he didn't mean to be a brute about it. He began every one of his tussles to improve her reading of a line with a gentleness that would have done credit to a kindergarten. But after three attempts, each more obviously gentle than the last, his temper would suddenly fly all to pieces.

The girl, queerly, didn't seem to care. Just in the dressing room one night, after one of these rehearsals, Rose got a different view. As she sat down on a bench to unlace her shoes, she looked straight into Edna Larson's face—a face sunken with a despair that turned Rose cold. The fearless, trudge eyes were staring, without recognition, straight into Rose's own.

Rose delayed her dressing till the other girls were gone, then sat down beside Edna.

"You're all right," she said, feeling very inadequate. "I'm going to help you."

"It's always like this," the girl said. "It's no use. He'll put me back in the chorus again."

"Not if I can help it," Rose said. "But the first thing to do is to come along and get something to eat."

During the next hour Rose learned, for the first time, what the weight of an immense melancholy inertia can be. The girl was like one paralyzed—paralyzed by repeated failures and disasters, of which she told Rose freely. When Galbraith had put her into the sextette, a hope, just about dead, had been reawakened. She'd learned to dance well enough to escape censure, and she'd seen for herself how indispensable her singing voice was to the sextette. And then it had appeared she didn't sound like a singer, and she'd been right.

"Look here!" said Rose, when the story was told. (This was across the table in a dingy little lunch room.) "You're going to say your lines before tomorrow's rehearsal so that Galbraith won't stop you once. We're going to my room now, and I'm going to teach you. Come along."

In a sort of daze, the girl went. Rose put her into a chair, sat down opposite her, took the first phrase of her first speech, and said it very slowly, very quietly, half a dozen times.

That was at half-past eleven o'clock at night. By midnight, Edna could say those first three words to Rose's satisfaction. They worked like that straight through the night, except that two or three times the girl broke down; said it was hopeless. She got up once and said that she was going home, whereupon Rose locked the door and put the key in her stocking.

At seven o'clock in the morning they went back to the lunch room and ate an enormous breakfast; then Rose walked Edna out to the park and back, and at eight they were up in her room again. They ridged the deliciousness at eleven, and made a slender meal. And at twelve, husky of voice, but indubitably of mind—Edna at last, as well as Rose—they confronted Galbraith.

When the test scene came, Rose could hardly manage her own first line, and drew a sharp look of inquiry from Galbraith. But on Edna's first cue, her line was spoken with no hesitation at all, and in tone, pitch, and inflection it was almost a photographic copy of the voice that had served it for a model.

There was a solid two seconds of silence.

When the rehearsal was over Galbraith called Edna out to him and allowed himself a long, incredulous stare at her. "Will you tell me, Larson," he asked, "why in the name of heaven, if you could do that, you didn't do it yesterday?"

"I couldn't do it yesterday," she said. "Dance taught me."

"Taught you?" he echoed. "Dance?" he called to Rose, who had been watching a little anxiously. "Larson tells me you taught her. How did you do it?"

"Why, I just—taught her," said Rose. "I showed her how I said each line, and I kept on showing her until she could do it."

"How long did it take you—all night?"

"All the time there was since last rehearsal," said Rose, "except for three meals."

"Ye gods!" said Galbraith. "Well, live and learn. Look here! Will you teach the others—the other four in the sextette? I'll see you're paid for it."

"Why, yes—of course," said Rose, hesitating a little.

"Oh, I don't mean overnight," he said, "but mornings—between rehearsals—whenever you can."

"I wasn't thinking of that," said Rose. "I was just wondering if they'd want to be taught—I mean, by another chorus girl, you know."

"They'll want to be taught if they want to keep their jobs," said Galbraith. "And then, to her astonishment—and also perhaps to his, for the thing was radically out of the etiquette of the occasion—he reached out and shook hands with her. "I'm very much obliged to you," he said.

The second of two incidents destined to have a powerful influence at this time in Rose's life concerned itself with a certain afternoon frock in a Michigan avenue shop.

The owners of "The Girl Upstairs" were staggered by the figure that Galbraith indicated as the probable cost of having a first-class brigand in New York design the costumes, and a firm of pirates in the same neighborhood execute them. It was simply insane. Many of the costumes could be bought.

Rose Aldrich's education and good breeding and her eagerness to make good soon put her at the head of the list of chorus women. How new opportunity comes to her is told in the next installment.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

CHAPTER XVII.

Rose keeps the path.

Rose rehearsed two days for a solid week without forming the faintest conception of who "the girl" was or why she was "the girl up-stairs."

During the entire period she never saw a bar of music except what stood on the piano rack, nor a written word of the lyrics she was supposed to sing. Rose couldn't sing very much. She had rather a timorous, throaty little contralto that contrasted oddly with the fine, free thrill of her speaking voice. But nobody had asked her whether she could sing at all. She picked up the tune quickly enough by her ears, but the words she was always a little uncertain about.

She finally questioned one of her colleagues in the chorus about this haphazardness, and was told that back at the beginning of things, they had had their voices tried by the musical director. They had never had any music to sing from; there had been half a dozen mimeograph copies of the words to the songs, what the girls had put their heads together over, and more or less learned. What had become of this dope the girl didn't know.

She was a pale-haired girl, whom Rose thought she had heard addressed as Larson.

Jane made a surprising discovery when, with a friendly pat on the sofa beside her, for an invitation to sit down, the girl began answering her question. She was a real beauty. Only you had to look twice at her to get the idea that this was so; and what she looked was the unanalyzable quality that makes one look twice.

"I don't know what you should worry about any of that stuff for," she said. "How you sing or what you sing doesn't make much difference."

Rose admitted that it didn't seem to. "But you see," she said (she hadn't had a human soul to talk to for more than a week, and she had to make a friend of somebody), "you see I've just got to keep this job. And it's every little helps, as they say, perhaps that would."

The girl looked at her oddly, almost suspiciously, as if for a moment she doubted whether Rose had spoken in good faith. "You've got as good a chance of losing your job," she said, "as Galbraith has of losing his. Dave

Union Commander Believed It Bad Luck to Turn and Retrace His Steps.

The country folk in the vicinity of Grant's boyhood home were as superstitious as was the general run of rural people in that day. One thing grew out of those notions that fixed itself permanently in the mind of the youthful Grant that had, no doubt, marked effect on his later life.

He says that he came firmly to believe that it meant bad luck for one to turn round and retrace his steps when on a journey. One night, with impulsive return home without reaching his intended destination, but he must do it by another route—not the same one he traveled in going.

This feeling may have had something to do with his entrance at West Point. It is commonly known that his appointment was not of his choosing, but that of his father. Grant himself hung back and had to be pressed to go to the academy. Even after he was well on his way—at Philadelphia and New York—he sincerely hoped that some accident might happen that would make his return imperative. But he would not turn round and retrace his steps.

The feeling seems to have grown gradually into set rule with him that after having set out to go anywhere, or to do anything, he must go to the end of the thing, and there must be no such thing as turning back. That was characteristic of his course in the Civil war when he rose to positions in which he had supreme decisions to make.

The only time in his life when he seemed near to breaking his rule was when, after the Mexican war, he decided to resign from the army and change the whole course of his life up to that time. But for the Civil war that would have been heard from again.

Worked Both Ways.

"Madam," said the conductor during an infantile paralysis epidemic, "you cannot travel on this train unless you have a health certificate for your child."

"The law does not require a child of sixteen to have a certificate," said the mother as she tossed her head and entered.

When the conductor again confronted her the haughty mother who had just tendered for the child, making this observation:

"But the law does require that children over twelve years of age pay full fare."

The woman's eyes flashed fire, her bosom registered her emotion, her hands clinched and her feet tapped—but she paid.—The Christian Herald.

His Choice.

"Isn't it rather dangerous to go to Europe at this time?"

"Oh, I don't know," said the confirmed globe trotter. "I understand that the professional gamblers who used to infest steamships have disappeared because of the war. I'd rather face a submarine than a card sharp."

Mean Brutal.

"Pooh!" sneered Mrs. Gabb. "Why, I could have married a dozen men before I took you." "I don't doubt it," growled Mr. Gabb. "Thirteen always was my unlucky number."

Women Eliminate Appearance of Waste and Extravagance in Their Frocks.

ECONOMY HYSTERIA SUBSIDES

Idea Now Followed Is Not to Deprive Seamstresses of Their Livelihood but to Avoid All Unnecessary Display.

New York.—In talking to a dressmaker of importance, whose bills to the rich women run into thousands each season, about this current topic of economy in clothes, she said that she had found less economy among all classes than a strong desire to wear clothes that did not express money.

Simplicity may be very costly, as we all know, was her further explanation, and women were paying good prices for their summer apparel, but they made a strong demand that played and gave them sufficient money on which to live; and it did not offend the public. No one wants to appear frivolous or unthinking in a crisis like this. When women are dressed in gold or silver, in jeweled trappings and in precious gowns, that vast public that is thinking only of how to live and how to sacrifice, might begin to murmur those terrible sentences of the French people in the revolution.

It is the appearance of extravagance, therefore, that women should avoid in these times of stress. Let them spend as liberally for apparel as they can afford, but let all women follow the lead of the wealthy and conservative set and see to it that their clothes reflect this great hour in dignity, seriousness and simplicity.

It is interesting to know that Germany is the first of the belligerents to put a restriction on the amount of wearing apparel for each person. The imperial clothing office has fixed the limit of garments that each man or woman may buy or possess during the year. This office also limits the amount of material which may be used in the making of a gown or a suit. No one may purchase a yard of material or a single garment without a special permit.

It is also interesting to know what Imperial Germany thinks is sufficient in the way of clothing for one woman—two everyday frocks, one Sunday frock, one separate skirt, two blouses, one coat or cape, one shawl, one dressing gown, three aprons, one pair of gloves, a half dozen handkerchiefs, four chemises, three nightgowns, three combinations or bloomers, three petticoats and four pairs of stockings.

Clothes That Appear Well.

It is the comment of all dressmakers that they are compelled to sell gay clothes at half the price of solemn ones. This should be a guide to all those who are preparing to plan the summer wardrobe.

There is no idea of substituting black for all colors, as there was in France at the beginning of the war, for we are not facing an invading army and burying masses of our dead. Yet, women are choosing frocks with only a bit of white, or Chinese brocade, to enliven them; and beige, sand, white and dull plaids are preferred to red, blue, green and purple.

The woman who may have chosen a cloth of gold brown with a tulle over it for last summer will today choose a frock of white satin with a bit of black tulle at neck and arms, and a girle of ribbon velvet with a rhinestone buckle. She may pay as much for the one as for the other, but she takes her place in the world with more dignity in the latter than in the former frock.

Women dine and dance at restaurants as much as they did last season, but instead of choosing the excessively décolleté gowns that have been fashionable, they prefer to be seen in frocks of silk and tulle, or lace, that are high at the back and transparent, and have long, transparent sleeves.

There is a woman who pays $25 apiece for her gingham frocks made at an excellent house, and for that high price she could get satin or embroidery jersey; but she wants to do

It should take upon itself the appearance of casting little.

A black satin dinner frock, for instance, built in draped lines, with a bit of gold lace at the neck, or merely a distinctive turnover collar of black and white tulle arranged in a modest décolletage, may have cost as much as a black and gold brocade of last season, trimmed with tulle and metal and draped in a daring way that focussed the attention. But the effect of economy was there.

The majority of women think that any undue display of apparel is in bad taste. They feel that the amount of money they pay for their clothes is a private and personal matter; but that any visible and outward display of the high cost of the gown is a public matter, and one that the public has a right to criticize.

The question of food is handled in much the same way. If you have been to anyone of the three-course dinners given by the rich women of the country, you may have had to go home and take soda mint to forestall indigestion.

There are three courses: against that there is no question. The quantity of food that can be put into three courses forms the interesting part of this subject, but, mind you, the food is not expensive and it is not elaborately prepared. The effect on the one who dines is that the inner man is satisfied with nourishing food perfectly cooked.

Onions and potatoes may cost a good deal; rice may have come up in price; chops may be much heavier than mushrooms with a French sauce; but who can measure the effect of severe simplicity in the serving of this type of food?

Just what the women who serve three courses have done to their cooking is what the women of wealth have done to their clothes.

See Effect of Economy.

After the first hysteria of war economy was over, women saw the foolishness in regard to apparel. A few facts sufficed to give them a different attitude.

When several dozen seamstresses had their engagements canceled for the spring season and were at their wits' end to know how to pay the rent and get food, the women who engaged these seamstresses to come to their houses each season, quickly saw that it was better to pay wages than to give to charity.

When hundreds of gowns were thrown back on dressmakers' hands, on the plea that there would be no money to pay for such extravagance, and the dressmakers were compelled to hold sweeping sales that undervalued whatever clothes the rich women had already bought, a new idea concerning economy was born in the brains of wealthy women.

The second movement on the part of classes of women was then directed toward providing money for those who worked, and at the same time eliminating the appearance of waste and extravagance.

The same idea worked well in both directions; it kept the workers employed.

Flowered Lining for Coats

Use of Art Linen or Chintz Adds Color and Gives More Substantial Body to Exterior Fabric.

To give a little color to suits of linen or silk, it is a pretty fad to line them with art linen or chintz. Besides the cheerful effect, the lining gives a more substantial body to the exterior fabric. Moreover, it can be removed and more readily cleaned than if it is of silk after the regulation manner.

An instance in point is a little suit of dark blue taffeta. The skirt is plaited from a correlated yoke and hangs in straight lines. The coat is a short model also cut on straight lines and held slightly in about the waist by a belt of black patent leather.

The lining is of rose-colored chintz striped by a floral pattern introducing old blue, white and black. The foundation color is reflected in the embroidery that appears on the collar and cuffs of the coat.

Cream and Skin Foods.

The creams and skin foods and cleansers to be bought are legion, but among the simple remedies that any woman can have in her home are oatmeal, starch and barley. The first is most valuable for softening the bathing water and whitening the skin; skins and softens the water also, while barley-water is good as a skin food for washing the face and hands. When you have had a busy day in the kitchen or at some vigorous household work, wash your face with cream or butter-milk and see how it takes away the red, overhauled appearance of the skin. Use rain-water for washing the face and hair when you can; it is most satisfactory. A little bit of egg rubbed in the face and allowed to dry there is very nourishing and smooths away the tired lines.—Mother's Magazine.

Embroidered Hat.

A pretty little hat of satin has for its only decoration an opened parrot in embroidered floss on the side of the crown.

Believing Him Dead, She Remarried.

Justice Greenbaum decided that Timchik, his former wife or her second husband may bring a suit for the annulment of the second marriage, which, if granted, would restore her as the wife of Timchik. In the meantime the second marriage must be considered in force and the first one in abeyance.

GIRL "KIDS" THE PRESIDENT.

Washington Telephone Maid Calls Him "Woody Old Top," and Chides Him.

Washington.—One of the most competent and popular telephone girls at a leading hotel in Washington, D. C., received a call a few days ago. The party wished to converse with one of the hotel guests. The operator inquired the name.

"Woodrow Wilson," came back over the phone.

Now the gag is an old one and the "wise" telephone girls are on. So this one came back:

"Well, Woodie, old top, how are you?" she gently chided. "You haven't called us for several days. You don't know how I have missed your sweet voice over the wire. Where have you been?"

The voice said it would like to have the call and minded not at all the telephone girl's "tatty." By and by the response came and the girl heard things that worried her. She looked thoughtful and chewed her mint more vigorously.

"I wonder if it could have been the president," she mused. Nervously she called the White House. One of the secret service men responded and the girl asked if a call had recently been sent to such and such a hotel.

After a minute's delay the reply came back:

"Yes, the president has been talking to Hon. — of New York."

"My Gawd," was the reply.

WIFE TOOK THE GOLD FROM HIS FALSE TEETH.

New York.—Wat is mild compared to the domestic experience alleged by Capt. W. Wood Brown before Justice Callaghan. Mrs. French sought a separation, but failed. The wife is forty, the husband seventy.

Mrs. French admitted taking the gold filling from her husband's false teeth, but said he had left her penniless. Captain French is in the employ of the water department.

Mule Hangs Itself.

Redesville, W. Va.—A mule owned by Charles Graybill, near here, committed suicide the other day, after a previous futile attempt. One morning recently the mule was found hanging in its stall, and was rescued just in time to prevent strangulation. The next night the animal succeeded in hanging itself.

Cause of the Tides.

The urge of the mass of the moon on the water is three-fifths and that of the mass of the sun two-fifths. But this ratio varies with the complicated variations of distance of the moon from the earth, and earth from the sun.

River Three Miles Broad.

The River Orinoco, near South America, is over three miles broad for nearly half its course, while during floods the width, even at places far from the sea, is often 100 miles.

A Modern Escape.

When asked how he got out of prison, a witty rogue replied, "I got out of my cell with ingenuity, ran upstairs with agility, crawled out the back window in secrecy, slid down the lightning rod with rapidity, walked out of the town with dignity, and am now basking in the sunshine of liberty."

All Same to Him.

The following table gives the names and records of the cows in the Association which have produced more than 40 pounds of butterfat during the period of 30 days ending July 1, 1917.

The state of war does not relax the interest in the subject of infant welfare this year. On the contrary, we owe it to the fathers, who, as volunteers and conscripts, must be away from home to do our part in saving their babies' lives. These brave fellows are doing enough in risking their own lives for the safety and happiness of the nation.

It may seem that there is not a very close connection between a father's fighting in Europe and his baby's living here, but there is. A reduced family income affects the baby seriously, especially in a high cost-of-living market. It may mean the substitution of a cheap, low grade of milk for pure milk. In one instance I know of, this killed a baby last summer when our men were only so far away as the Mexican border.

The efficiency of fighting men, furthermore, is affected by whether their minds are harassed or at peace concerning the health and welfare of their families back home. This fact has been emphasized by Captain George R. T. Army, who speaks not on theory but on the authority of a veteran soldier. Doubtless, there would have been a far larger number of volunteers had not many an otherwise willing soldier been deterred from enlisting by the question of the health and help of his wife and children.

Another reason more remote but no less patriotic, was noted by John Burns when he said: "Give me intelligent motherhood and good prenatal conditions, and I have no doubt of the future of this or any other nation." Patriotism, may it be said, is not a matter of words.

When mother is glancing over the paper she will stop and snort with indignation and say: "Well, for heaven's sake! And father, dear! that something awful has happened, will say: 'What's the matter?' And mother will reply: 'They must be hard up for something to put in the paper. It says here that Mrs. Blank will entertain in honor of her guest, Mrs. Blank. The only way that old cat could entertain would be to borrow all the dishes in the neighborhood. And before she does any entertaining she had better—' But father gets up and beats it.

The trouble with having a cinch is that it is so hard to get a sucker to take a bet on it.

OF SENECA PRECINCT

SOLDIERS' BABIES

Our present state of war does not warrant any relaxation of interest in the subject of infant welfare this year. On the contrary, we owe it to the fathers, who, as volunteers and conscripts, must be away from home to do our part in saving their babies' lives. These brave fellows are doing enough in risking their lives for the safety and happiness of the nation.

It may seem that there is not a very close connection between a father's fighting in Europe and his baby's living here, but there is. A reduced family income affects the baby seriously, especially in a high-cost-of-living market. It may mean the substitution of a cheap, low grade of milk for pure milk. In our country I know of this killed a baby last summer when our men were only so far away as the Mexican border.

The efficiency of fighting men, furthermore, is affected by whether their minds are on the battle or on the health and welfare of their families back home. This fact has been emphasized by Captain Cathron, U. S. Army, who speaks not on theory but on the authority of a soldier's experience. During the war there have been a far larger number of volunteers had not many an otherwise willing soldier been deterred from enlisting by the question of the health and help of his wife and children.

Another reason more remote but no less patriotic, was voiced by John Burns when he said: "Give me intelligent motherhood and good pre-natal conditions, and I have no doubt of the future of this or any other nation." Patriotism, humanity, love for babies and a sense of fair play, all combine to compel us not to lose sight of the lives and welfare of our babies at home while we are driving with every ounce of power for the safety and people of Belgium and France.

Little Boy Killed.—Lawrence, the car-and-one-half old son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bartel, of Brookway, was fatally injured Saturday afternoon by a switch engine, while playing around the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul tracks at Brookway. There were no witnesses to the accident and it is not known just how the child was injured. Both arms and both legs were severed from the body. The child was rushed to the St. Mary's hospital at Wausau, but death occurred shortly after arrival there.

LET US SHOW YOU HOW YOU CAN OWN A FARM HOME IN THE UPPER PENINSULA OF MICHIGAN

To the man who wants eighty or a hundred sixty acres of good land and is willing to put in his time and energy we not only offer to sell the land at a low price on easy terms but will help him improve it by building a house and barn and assist him in clearing up five acres to start with.

We not only say we will do these things but we are already doing them. The success of the farmer is our business. It will not cost you anything to investigate. Send for our literature. Write us a letter. The leasing of a farm home is important enough to claim your time and attention. It is our business to tell the truth.

Tell us your circumstances and we will find a way to meet your needs. Remember you are dealing directly with the owners of the land and have plenty to choose from. Sure crops and good climate; soil the best in pure water.

CAUSES OF BAD SPEECH STUDIED BY TEACHERS

studied in special courses at the University of Wisconsin summer season. The teachers are especially adapted for learners in kindergartens, graded schools, and those who wish to spend holidays in the country as a corrective work.

Organic conditions such as adenoids, mal occlusion of teeth, rickets, and abnormalities of the internal secretions that cause thickening of the tongue may be causes of speech defects. A lack of brain development, which causes feeble-mindedness, also causes thick, slovenly, slurring speech. Often the same lack of emotional development that makes children susceptible to suggestion leads to lack of attention, forgetfulness, truancy, and even stealing.

A clinic in connection with the courses will enable the class to secure experience in diagnosis, treatment, and treating speech disorders and related neurotic traits. On Saturdays speech defects will be shown at a clinic at Mendota state hospital.

When mother is planning over the paper she will stop and snort with indignation and say: "Well, for Heaven's sake!" And father, fearful that something awful has happened, exclaims: "What's the matter?" And mother will reply: "They must be hard up for something to put in the paper. It says here that Mrs. Hink will entertain in honor of her friends." Then father will remark: "That old cat could entertain would be to borrow all the dishes in the neighborhood. And before she does anything entertaining she had better—" But father reels up and says: "I don't care! I'm going to have a picnic having a picnic is that it so hard to get a sucker to take a bet on."

Settled the Argument.
When Police Sergeant McShane was going into a barber's shop he noticed a sign posted on the window which read, "Laundry Agency."
"Where did you learn to spell?" he asked the barber.
"Why, what's wrong?" he asked in reply.
"Look at that sign," replied McShane. "Who told you to spell agency that way?"
"It doesn't look right," admitted the barber. "We had a big argument about it, me and the painter. I said I thought it was a-g-e-n-c-y, but he said it was a-l-a-n-c-y. He wouldn't give in to me, and I wouldn't give in to him, and we left it to a man that's chairman of our education committee. He spent it the way it's on the window, and we couldn't dispute his word about it, could we?"

ANY CORN LIFTS OUT, DOESN'T HURT A BIT!

No foolishness! Lift your corns and calluses off with fingers—It's like magic!

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn, can harmlessly be lifted right out with the fingers if you apply upon the corn a few drops of freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.
For little cost one can get a small bottle of freezone at any drug store, which will positively rid one's feet of every corn, and without pain.
It is applied and does not even irritate the surrounding skin while applying it or afterwards.
This announcement will interest many of our readers. If your druggist hasn't any freezone tell him to surely get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house—adv.

Knew What It Would Be.
A teacher was endeavoring to explain the term "face simile" to his class. "Now," he remarked to the sharp young "what is your father's trade or profession?"
"He's a lithographer," was the reply.
"Very well. Suppose a gentleman came to your father with a document which he wanted reproduced in every particular, your father agreed and the document was faithfully copied, would it be?"
"Well," replied the boy, thoughtfully, "it depends."
"On what?" asked the teacher.
"On the document."
"How so?"
"Well, if it was a $5 note, for instance, the other would be a counterfeit. If the document was a check the copy would be a forgery."
"You don't understand what I mean."
"Oh, yes, I'm quite sure I do," went on the boy. "I'm just coming to it now. In either case I reckon it would be about ten years."

Abandon Use of Oyster Shell.
The commissioners of St. John's county, Florida, announce their intention of abandoning for all time the use of the oyster shell as a paving material for the county roads. It is claimed that enough money has been spent in St. John's county for oyster shell in the last forty years to have paved with brick every important highway in the county.

IS OUR HAIG HERE?

AMERICA'S FUTURE GREAT COMMANDER PROBABLY AMONG NEW GENERALS.

PROMOTIONS SEEM JUSTIFIED

Personal Reminiscences of Morrison, Sibert, Morton, Shanks, Sturgis, Bundy and Hale—Their Careers Will Be Watched With Interest.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.
Washington.—Who's to be who in the army?

Somewhere in the list of officers who were designated by the president for promotion recently probably is the name of an American Haig, Joffre, Pétain or Nivelle.
There seems to have been some misunderstanding about these promotions. It has been made to appear that the officers advanced are to take command in the new army. They are all officers of regulars and, so far as the major generals and the brigadier generals are concerned, they almost unquestionably will be in command of divisions and brigades of regulars for the time being.

The American people will watch the careers of these general officers of their army. There probably will be a personal interest in them that was shown by the people of Great Britain in their general officers during the first year of the hostilities in France. The British knew that commanders were to be made and unmade by the force of battle events.

Your correspondent knows personally many of these newly made major generals and brigadier generals. With some of them he has a close personal friendship dating back to West Point days. Several of the men soon to see service in France were classmates of mine and a majority of those named were students at the academy during the time of my cadetship.

New Generals Have Fine Records.
There is perhaps not one of the newly appointed general officers whose army record does not give justification for his advancement. Opinions on this, of course, will differ in the army, but in the main the list is one which shows more careful selection and avoidance of that army devil, favoritism.

It is as boys that I remember fully some of the newly promoted. With others I have kept up close personal relations whenever the wanderings of their army career would allow close association. "As the boy, the man."

The three new major generals of the army, John P. Morrison, William L. Sibert and Charles G. Morton, all were at the academy together, although no two of them graduated in the same year. Morrison was an '81 man, Morton an '83 man and Sibert an '84 man. Let us take them in the order of rank.

John P. Morrison was known at the academy as "Babe" not because he was babyish, but because he was small of stature, a characteristic of physique which has not changed with the years except a little laterally.

"Babe" Morrison's Close Call.
I do not know Morrison well, for he was an upper classman when I was a plebe, but I remember one incident in his cadet career which filled me with admiration for his pluck, and which came near ending his career as a soldier before he could so much as prospect of being a major general with prospective service against the Germans in France.

In the riding hall one day a vicious horse aimed a two-ton kick at "Babe" Morrison, who received it in the pit of the stomach. Luckily for him, the force of the kick when he received it was like that of a spent bullet, for the receiver was just an inch beyond the extreme limit of the kicking endeavor.
As it was, "Babe" Morrison fell over and every cadet present thought he was dead. He came to in a minute, declined a trip to the hospital, mounted the kicker and went through the strenuous drill with nothing more than a palpitation from death simply because the enemy did not quite have the range.

"Goliath" Sibert a Stickler.
Maj. Gen. William L. Sibert was a classmate of mine at the Military Academy, and for years he has been one of my closest personal friends. Sibert, because of his size, was known as "Goliath." So soon, side by side on the battle front of France, will appear two American major generals who received their cadet nicknames for different reasons.

Sibert's roommate at the academy for two years was David Du Bose, Galliard, who dug the Galliard war at Panama and died a martyr to his work just as he had completed the great task. The fact that Galliard's first name was David tickled the fancy of the cadets immensely because his roommate was Goliath. No nickname ever was given Galliard, the cadets sticking to "David" solely because of the fact that his room mate was a namesake of the Philistine giant.

As a cadet Sibert stuck to a job until he finished it and it made little difference what it was. He was particularly in person and he was one of the most brilliant students the academy ever had known. One of the reasons probably why Sibert was promoted over the heads of other officers was the knowledge of the officials of the war department that he had been insistent from the beginning of his career in putting into instant operation the things that he had learned.

Maj. Gen. Charles G. Morton, who has received his promotion with Morrison and Sibert, had a nickname at the academy, which was dropped as soon as his young irresponsible classmates graduated. Morton was known as "Beak," for, with the usual way of youth, which is not always kindly, although probably meaning so to be, Morton was given the name because his head, and doubtless still has, a big nose.

Morton a Hard Student.

For years Charles G. Morton has been more or less of a marked man in the army because of his constant and hard study of army problems. All of his study, but some of them are, as one might say, super-studious. Out of Morton's study have come results and one of them is his promotion to the command of a division and unquestionably his chance to fight in France for his country as a division commander.

Of the 18 colonels who were promoted to be brigadier generals there were classmates of mine at the academy—David G. Shanks and Samuel D. Sturgis. Shanks is a Virginian. He is an excellent mountaineer. I can see his face and his head today as they appeared on the day of his reporting at the Military Academy in the year 1880. Shanks is one of the army's favorites. He was popular as a cadet and there is every evidence of his popularity in the army.

Brig. Gen. Samuel D. Sturgis is a son of General Sturgis of Civil War fame, who, after the war, commanded the Seventh Cavalry. One of Samuel Sturgis' brothers was killed under Custer, in July, 1876, in the fight with the Sioux. He was an artilleryman, young-looking and a man of extraordinary vigor.

Bundy and Hale.
Omar Bundy of the class of '83, who has just been made a brigadier general, distinguished himself in the Philippines, particularly in the fight at the Crater. Bundy is "far from tall" being of a stocky and yet wiry construction. If the cadets in his day had been as familiar as they should have been, perhaps, with certain lines of poetic endeavor, Bundy might have acquired some other nickname than the one which was given him, but the cadets knew little of Omar or of the annexed surname, and so Bundy was dubbed "Bundy" and today he is still "Bundy" notwithstanding the fact he is a brigadier general.

Harry C. Hale, now a brigadier general, has the brightest pair of eyes that the army possesses. Hale's eyes, if sparkling means anything in the way of piercing quality, can look through the tank of a battery. It was Hale who did such commanding work in the drive after Big Foot's band prior to the Wounded Knee fight in South Dakota. In other ways than most distinguished, he is physically lithe and mentally alert. He was a good fellow as a cadet when I knew him well, and I can find no one in Washington to say that he has changed in the least in this from the days of boyhood.

Want 60,000 Volunteers.
Things occasionally go wrong with the calculations of the experts. There was no war department man but thought that as soon as registration day was over the rush to enlist in the regular service would be so great that a week's time only would be necessary to secure the young Americans needed for the regular establishment.

About 60,000 are needed to bring the regulars to war strength. It is known that the officials had no strong hope that all the men needed can be secured by July 15, but there will be no contentment if, in existing circumstances, 20,000 men can be enlisted for the infantry and 5,000 for the artillery within the limits of the time fixed. Army officers and many civilians with them all over the country, with the approval of Washington, are "driving" to secure recruits for the regular army.

Things have gone counter to expectation. Recruiting fell off after registration day and in one way the army officers think the falling off signifies something worth while. The first thought in the matter was that recruits would rush to the regular army because they desired to avoid being known as conscripts. The heart desire of the war department has been to take from conscription everything suggestive of compulsory service. Every effort has been made to let the young men know that they would be held in as high honor under the selective plan as always has been the case under the volunteering system.

No Disgrace in Conscription.
Army officers believe now that young Americans have given over the idea that the new national army is to be looked on as a conscript army and that service in it is a disgrace. The fact that service in the new army is to be looked on as a disgrace is a view held by the general public. It is the decrease in the numbers of men applying for service in the regular army is due to the fact that no longer is conscription regarded as once it was, the army officials will be not only satisfied but grateful.

Recruiting for the regular army, it is believed here, was quickened at first by the belief of the applicants that they would see first service in France. Now there seems to be a feeling that the regiments which first were brought up to war strength will be the first to go and that the regiments of this and next month will not get to the front more quickly than men of the National Guard, while some of them may be held until the first organizations of the new national army which show themselves ready for service are sent abroad under convoy.

Army men say that there never was such an army in personage as that which the country will have when the recruiting is completed.

The Woman's Co-operative Guild of England.
This guild, which has been in existence 30 years, has 30,000 members. Microbes are never found on gold coins, while paper money is an ideal harboring place for them. The Menopauses of Western Canada have been forbidden by their faith, have sent no volunteers, but are aiding the allies with money.

The word "democrat" originated from two Greek words. "Demos" means the common people; "krates" means rule. A democrat is one who favors rule by the people.

The Shattered Pane

By Walter Joseph Delaney
(Copyright, 1917, by W. G. Chapman.)

The man was attired in the height of fashion. He wore no ornament except a small discolored ring, pendant from a silken watch ribbon crossing his vest. His face was bronzed, his hands scarred and rough. With all of these incongruities, it would have puzzled even a skilled physiognomist to determine his exact social and business status.

He bore a thin package about the size of an ordinary window pane, covered with wrapping paper, under his arm. Whoever he was, he was in a hurry. He stood with one foot on a kitchen doorstep, his ear bent with him. Then he placed his package carefully tilted against the house and stole on tiptoe across the first room beyond.

In the adjoining one a table was set with three persons around it, a gray-haired old man, his gentle-faced wife and a girl of about twenty, evidently their daughter. At one side of the table was a plate of roasted, knife, fork and spoon, and a saucer and a napkin encircled by a silver band, and as the eyes of the intruder noted this, he fairly suppressed a great gasp and his eyes moistened and his strong face quivered.

"Dear old folks!" he breathed and then off and down went his hat, his head bowed reverently. The old man was asking a blessing upon the homely meal. The watcher stole across the kitchen floor, noiselessly dropped into the empty chair at the table and sat there trembling and expectant as the old man's voice concluded the formal grace with the earnest words:

"And bring back to us our dear wandering boy."

And then the reverent heads were lifted and old John Davis, his staring eyes fixed upon the wandering boy returned, slowly arose, but stood rigid, unbelieving, at this apparent immediate answer to prayer. The mother uttered a fervent cry, the sister, Lella, was at his side in one swift whirl of her supple body, her arms about his neck and crying, laughing, sobbing for sheer unrestrained joy. And then none thought of the meal for the moment. The glad greetings over, the father's set, wrinkled face was restored to its usual grim composure aspect.

"So you have come back to us?" he spoke.
"And you are glad of it?" cried Eldred Davis.
"Dad, think of it. Twelve years and I'm back at that far-away morning when you ordered me to take the money I had saved and my putting in the window pane in Mr. Sloan's shed you insisted I had broken. I thought I was to get the strapping of my life if I disobeyed. Well, I was full of spunk and I rebelled."

"I'm" muttered the old man.
"I wandered everywhere. I've had great ups and downs. Then I hit it last year in Alaska. I'm back a rich man," and Eldred produced from various pockets, rich articles of jewelry—a diamond brooch for his mother, a pearl necklace for father, an exquisite ring for the wife, and a watch for Lella. An hour went by, and the old man's recital of extraordinary adventures, in his plans for the future, such as settling down to business in the home town.

"I've something to say to you," said Mr. Davis, as the women folks bustled themselves in another room. "You remember I have made it a point all of my life never to break a promise."
"That's you, dad!" declared Eldred emphatically.
"I'm proud of you, for you've made a man of yourself. I can see that," pursued the old man, "but my word is my word. I sent you out to mend a window. I told you a strapping was coming if you disobeyed."
"Why, yes, that's it, father," assented Eldred, rather taken aback.
"Well, you disobeyed—and you've got to take your medicine."
"Say, dad, you're fooling!" exclaimed Eldred.
"I never was more in earnest," insisted the old man. "See here!"

He arose and reached behind a door. Thence from its back he took a broad leather strap that had been the rod of justice in Eldred's boyhood days.
"You don't mean it?" he began.
"Take off your coat," ordered the father grimly. "You're a man now, but the principle holds."
"Dad, you—come here," invited Eldred and he led his father outside. Then he lifted the package he had left tilted up against the clapboards.
"Know what's in that?"

Here's Your Hat, Stay Awhile.
It is the Nine Dimittis—the art of the peaceful departure. To know when to go, and how to let go after "mimo eyes have seen"—yes, that is a fine art, indeed. Learn the art of termination, facility and save a world of apologies and regrets afterward. Learn not to linger over anything—even a telephone. Long conversations, long explanations, long letters, long farewells, long prayers in public sessions or speeches, and long-sung-out stories—may avoid them. Come to the point

"I don't."
A pane of glass and some putty. Nine by fourteen—say, all through the years I've remembered the measurements of that unlucky window pane! I even sniggered around the old Sloan place before I came here. Bless me! If that shiftless old Jediah Sloan hasn't let that shed window stay out all of these years. I'm going over there now and set it. I'm finally able to obey you, dad. Surely that settles the score, hey?"

"You're the same quick-witted rascal you was as a boy, ain't you?" almost chuckled his father. "Yes, call it quits," and taking out his pocket knife he slowly cut the leather strap into bits and threw them aside.

"I say, dad," broke in Eldred afresh. "how's Miriam?"
"Oh, she's grown to be a likely girl," responded the old man.
"Got married yet?"
"Oh, no; she don't seem to care anything for fellows."

A bland, satisfied smile covered the face of the returned wanderer. He tucked the package under his arm and crossed lots to the Sloan place, whistling thoughtfully, but with his usual intense heartiness.

Eldred came to the Sloan home by the rear. There was the old shed used as a kitchen as of yore, there was the unglazed guping sash. Eldred sat down beside a sheltering lilac bush and removed the covering from the pane of glass and the putty, placed the pane in his unaided operations and drew a putty knife from his pocket.

A keen mental retrospection held him within its thrall for a few vivid moments. His thoughts ran back twelve years and the picture was dominated by a vision of sweet Miriam Sloan, a child of his own age. How tenderly had they exchanged love tokens! She had given him a cheap metal ring, which time had worn and tarnished and the luster of the glass imitation ruby was dimmed. He had used his small savings to buy Miriam a tawdry neck chain and this was one of the reasons that he had run away from home, for the discovery of this questionable embezzlement would have certainly won him a double castigation.

"And the further reason was Miriam, dear little Miriam!" now soliloquized Eldred and his eye brightened at the memory of her bewitching beauty.
It was Miriam who had carelessly flung the ball that had shattered the shed window, and she had run frightened as she heard her father coughing around the house, and Eldred had darted homewards. Mr. Sloan had held Eldred the guilty one and had so apprised his father.

"I wonder if Miriam is as sweet and bewitching as ever," murmured Eldred, and proceeded to the denuded window sash. All the lights were gone, but he set the one in place the destruction of which had sent him wandering over the globe. He had just finished when a merry thrilling voice echoed through the house. It approached nearer and nearer. Miriam Sloan, headed for a clothesline where hung some lace and kerchiefs, paused with a shock.

"Oh, Eldred!" she cried, and stood stock still and trembled.
He advanced and clasped her willing hand between his own. She was flustered like a frightened dove.
"The window," he said all a smile—"I came back to fix it after twelve years."

"Then you did not forget—"
"You? See," and Eldred dangled the cherished ring before her gaze. "You, I suppose, have never thought of me since that day to the long ago."
"Wait!" she said, her face flushed, her eyes dancing.

She sped away like a deer. She returned breathless. Miriam removed the cover from a little pasteboard box in her hand.
"Look!" she breathed, and he saw inside a faded rose, nestling in a downy nest of cotton, the flannel neck chain he had given her in the far past.

"And I broke the window, and you took all the blame!" she chided herself mournfully. "Have you come back to stay?"
"That rests with you, Miriam," said Eldred Davis simply.

Sparrow in New Role.
An incident probably unique in the annals of the stage was witnessed by a crowded house at the open house in Cape Town during a matinee. Immediately the curtain rose on the garden scene in which a parrot and perch are a feature, a sparrow flew down from the dome of the theater onto the stage and hopped and flew about quite fearlessly, picking up the parrot food and the ground rice (thrown in this scene) at the feet of the astonished actors, taking not the slightest notice of their movements, not even of the dancing disturbing the scene and the parrot food. The incident caused the greatest amusement, both to the company and to the audience—the latter being quite under the impression that the sparrow had been trained and was part of the show.

Standing Just So Much.
We have all seen parents or teachers who would stand for almost everything. They would turn the other cheek to a child all the way to the back again. But, suddenly, something slips. The parent worm turns and wallops the scoundrel from his offspring and the onlookers, to a man, rejoice. It seems too bad, sometimes, that things have to come to a head. It takes so long. But it is a way they have. Perhaps it is all right. We worms might make more mistakes than we do if we didn't get things all thought-out and suffered out before turning.—Minneapolis Journal.

Curiosities of Red Hair.
It is a curious fact that a red-haired person seldom marries a life partner who has hair of a ruddy hue. The reason why parents with glossy black hair so often have red-haired children is because the glossiness is due to fed hidden by black pigment. A dark-haired child has never been known to have a parent with flaxen hair. The rule is, that children will get hair darker than that of the darkest-haired parent.

"Through with him?"
"Yes. He wouldn't even steal a kiss."

FARMS THE SOURCE OF WEALTH

Careful Tillage, Good Management and a Beneficent Soil.

Reading the reports of the managers of the chartered banks in Canada, one is struck by the wonderful showing that they have made during the past two or three years. They are careful in their statements, and while they attribute the success that they have met with, together with that which has followed other lines of business, they are careful to emphasize the fact that the condition of big business may not continue. On the other hand, they point out that the material and fundamental source of wealth is the farm. While other lines of business may have their setbacks, and while care and scrupulous care, will have to be exercised to keep an even balance, there is but little risk to the farmer when economic and staid lines will carry on his branch of industry and endeavor to produce what the world wants not only today, but for a long distance into the future, with a greater demand than ever in the past.

Speaking recently before a Canadian bank board at its annual meeting, the vice president, once a farmer himself, said:

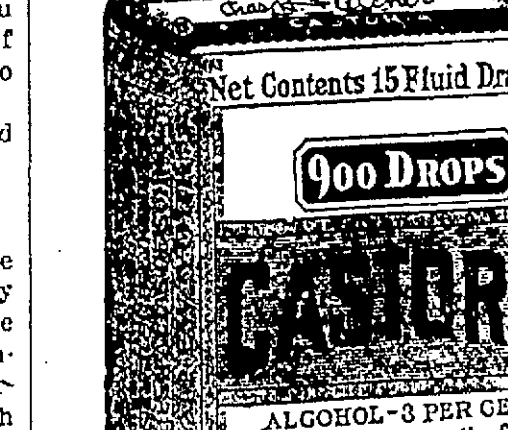

"The farm is the chief source of wealth. We have now three trillions of dollars in the world, with branches running through thousands of miles of the very best undeveloped agricultural land in the world. In the natural course of things, these must attract immigration. The products of the farm are now commanding the highest prices ever known, and in my opinion even after the end of the war, high prices for foodstuffs must continue to prevail. With the mechanical appliances now available for the farmer, the farm has a considerable surplus of extra capital, but should be helped to the extent needed upon good security. The food supply of the world is short, the demand is likely to increase rather than decrease. Development of mines, extension of factories and the reconstruction of devastated Europe must all call for supplies for the workers. On the whole, the farmer has been helped rather than hurt by the war, and will continue to be, at least for a long time to come."

Many men of authority and intelligence support what the vice president has said, and their statements are borne out by the facts that readily present themselves. The different grain-producing countries of Europe have been robbed of the man power that developed their agriculture, the farms have been devastated and laid waste. Full and complete reliance will have to be placed on the United States and Canada, and from what we see today, it will take the combined forces of these two countries to come anywhere near meeting the cry that will go out for food. The warnings and appeals sent out by the heads of these two countries are none too soon nor too urgent. Therefore, it becomes necessary for those who can produce to exert themselves. Secure land, rent it, buy it. Get it somewhere, some way, and have it operated. The Canadian Government, sending out its appeal, is not selfish in this matter. Thousands of acres in the United States await the tiller's efforts, and none of it should be idle. Canada, too, offers wonderful advantages, with its free lands and its low-priced lands, to those desirous of helping the nation, and improving their own condition at the same time. Many are taking advantage of this wonderful opportunity.—Advertisement.

Tennille, Ga. — "I want to tell you how much I have been benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. About eight years ago I got in such a low state of health I was unable to keep house for three in the family. I had dull, tired, dizzy feelings, cold feet and hands nearly all the time and could scarcely sleep at all. The doctor said I had a severe case of ulceration and without an operation I would always be an invalid, but I told him I wanted to wait awhile. Our druggist advised my husband to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has entirely cured me. Now I keep house for seven and work in the garden some, too. I am so thankful I got this medicine. I feel as though it saved my life and have recommended it to others and they have been benefited."—Mrs. W. E. LINDSEY, R. R. 3, Tennille, Ga.

The jeweler took the gem, which was unset, and looked at it critically. Then in confidential tones he said:

"Well, to tell you the truth, that isn't a very good stone. It hasn't much fire, it is badly cut, and there is something here very much like a flaw." Then he held the diamond under a microscope and examined it carefully, finally observing: "No, it isn't exactly a flaw, but I shouldn't call it a perfect stone. Now, if you want something really fine I have here—"

"Excuse me," the other man interrupted. "I don't think I'll buy a diamond today. This is a diamond that one of your assistants let me take on Saturday on approval. I deposited $50 on it. Please let me have my money and we will declare the deal off."—London Answers.

STEVENS POINT BOY DROWNED

Stevens Point Journal: Harry Zinda, 9 years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Zinda, 216 Public Square, was drowned Sunday evening at 8 o'clock at the Charlesworth bathhouse on the foot of Main street, when he fell off a narrow plank at the side of the dock where he was playing. The body was in the water 20 minutes before it was recovered. Harry's father, Capt. Herman Krembs of Fire Station No. 1, was immediately notified. Resuscitation measures were taken when the body was brought to the shore. It was then found, however, that in the excitement of the moment no doctor had been sent for. Dr. C. Neupert, Jr., was immediately called. Meantime first-aid was administered. The body was then brought to land but at first it was thought that a spark of life was apparent. The lips of the boy seemed to move. Artificial respiration was administered by working over the body.

The pulmotor was then brought. No one knew how to work it until Dr. Neupert arrived. Then the apparatus was set in motion. Drs. A. E. MacMillan, V. J. Shipley, C. von Neupert, Sr. and F. A. Walters came upon soon after and assisted in the active measures for saving the boy. The body was removed to the home and work in an attempt to revive the lad was continued until midnight, but without avail.

SHOP TALK

The Saw—The auger manages to get around a great deal. The Hammer—Yes, but he's an awful bore at that.

LUKE MCLUKE SAYS

Don't pin too much faith on the man who is always telling you to call on him when you need a favor. He will probably be the first one to turn you down.

The old fashioned woman who always had a big pot of something good simmering on the back of the stove, and who considered it a woman's duty to keep her husband well fed and do her own washing, now has a married daughter who is running around preaching Social Unit bunk and whose husband has to feed down town.

All women love animals. And if she can't have a dog she gets a cat. The world may laugh at a man and wife who are in love with each other after years of married life, but secretly it envies them.

It takes marriage and the presence of a few children in the home to convince a man that 5-cent cigars are as good as the 10-cent kind.

A fool man can't understand why a bunch of women will get together and give another woman a Baby Shower when she hasn't any baby.

Do More Canning

The American housewife who practices thrift places herself in the ranks of those who serve their country. The fruit we waste would feed Belgium. Help stop this extravagance by doing more canning this year. It will cut down the grocery bill this winter and the money saved can be placed in a Savings Account at this bank where it will earn compound interest for you.

CONTRACT FOR NEW DEPOT

The contract for the new Soo depot at Stevens Point has been let to the Withee Construction company of Withee, Wis. The new depot will be quite an elaborate affair and will contain passenger depot, division of files, baggage room, cafe and club rooms for the employees. There will be two buildings, one being 44x80 feet, and the other 35x80, with a space of 40 feet between the two buildings.

SUCCESSFUL CHAUTAUQUA

S. G. Corey, who has had charge of the Chautauqua business in this city during the past week, reports that the affair held here was quite successful, and while the affair ran behind a trifle, this was because a number of the season when the canvass was made, failed to make good when the sale was on. Some of these had removed from the city and others pleaded hard times and the high cost of living. However, taken altogether the spectators were well pleased with the affair and the attendance was all that could be desired.

INFORMATION TO HUNTERS

Following is an abstract taken from a circular letter to the county clerk relative to the game laws for 1917 from the Wisconsin Conservation Commission:

"The law provides for a special deer hunting tag the fee for which is 10c. When a hunter buys his license ask him if he desires a deer tag and if so you must fill out the tag in ink and insert the number of his license on the tag. Never issue a duplicate tag. If a hunter asks you for a duplicate tag advise him that he must secure it from this office the same as a duplicate license.

Hunting license cannot be sold to any person who has not reached the age of 15 years. This does not mean 14 years and 11 months. So many clerks ask if a boy who will be 15 years old in six weeks cannot buy a license. The law says 15 years, our answer must be NO, and every county clerk when he is asked that question should simply point to the law and say that a county clerk nor no one else may change the law. The boy must wait until his 15th birthday.

Applications for Hunting License.—This is important. Sub-section (2) of section 29.00 of the new laws particularly provide that an application in the form of an affidavit must be executed and filed with you covering every license you sell.

This year the taking of application blanks will be doubly important, for the following reason—licenses can be sold to a citizen of the United States only. This means that an alien must have lived in the United States for at least 5 years. The old law permitted the sale of licenses to aliens who had their first papers. You are going to have hundreds of applications from these men and you must refuse them. And man who has not his full citizenship papers executes one of the application blanks and swears to it. He will be fined $500. If you give him a license without his making a shoulder straps application, we have not the evidence to convict him."

Fish and Game Law booklets and hunting licenses will be at this office about August 20th.

SAM CHURCH, County Clerk.

The Store That Saves You Money

SOLDIERS' BABIES

Our present state of war does not warrant any relaxation of interest in the subject of infant welfare this year. On the contrary, we owe it to the fathers who are volunteers and conscripts, must be away from home to do our part in saving their babies' lives. These brave fellows are doing enough in risking their own lives for the safety and happiness of the nation.

It may seem that there is not a very close connection between father's fighting in Europe and his baby's living here, but there is. A reduced family income affects the baby seriously, especially in a high-cost-of-living market. It may mean the substitution of a cheap, low grade of milk for pure milk. In one instance I know of, this killed a baby last summer when our men were only so far away as the Mexican border.

The efficiency of fighting men further, is affected by whether their minds are harassed or at peace concerning the health and welfare of their families back home. This fact has been emphasized by Captain Gathro, U. S. Army, who speaks not on theory but on the authority of a veteran soldier. Doubtless, there would have been a far larger number of volunteers had not many an other-wise willing soldier been deterred from enlisting by the question of the health and help of his wife and children.

Another reason more remote but no less patriotic, was voiced by John Burns when he said: "Give me an efficient motherhood and good parental conditions, and I have no doubt of the future of this or any other nation." Patriotism, humanly, love of babies and a sense of fair play, it combines to compel us not to lose sight of the lives and welfare of our babies at home while we are driving with every ounce of power for the babies and people of Belgium and France.

Little Boy Killed.—Lawrence, the four-and-one-half old son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bartel, of Brookway, was fatally injured Saturday afternoon by a switch engine, while playing around the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul tracks at Brookway. There were no witnesses to the accident and it is not known just how the child was injured. Both arms and both legs were severed from the body. The child was rushed to the St. Mary's hospital at Wausau, but death occurred shortly after arrival there.

To the man who wants eighty or a hundred sixty acres of rich farm land and is willing to put in his time and energy we not only offer to sell the land at a low price on easy terms but will help him improve it by building a house and barn and assist him in clearing up five acres to plant with.

We not only say we will do those things but we are already doing them. The success of the farmer is our success. It will not cost you anything to investigate. Send for our literature. Write us a letter. The owning of a farm home is important enough to claim your time and attention. It is our business to tell you the truth.

Tell us your circumstances and we will find a way to meet your needs. Remember you are dealing directly with the owners of the land and that have plenty to choose from. Sure crops and good climate; soil the best and pure water.

A FORMER RESIDENT WRITES FROM ENGLAND

W. J. Sherman of Wauwatosa, but who at one time was a resident of this city, being a brother to Mrs. R. A. Weeks and being employed in the Weeks Marble works, writes an interesting letter concerning one of the air raids that occurred over London and in which he was a participant. Mr. Sherman had been located in Boston for some time before going to Europe, where he is working with the Red Cross.

His letter in part is as follows: "London, May 27.—Just returned from Folkestone at 2 p. m. You really ought to know, and I hope the censor doesn't mind it will be of great value to the Allies for you to know what happened last night at Folkestone. We were upstairs in the Kentworth Apartments when we heard some suspicious sounds and noticed that people were hurrying about and gazing upwards. We hurriedly went to the roof and found there were some airplanes directly over us. They were so high that we couldn't see them for a long while. They were like shiny silver insects, moving over them, and they were making bombs like hail. They sounded like a ball storm, doing the rambling of their motors, so high in the air. But the sound of those bombs! It was hellish. A searching light, when it descended, then a pause and a detonation would wake the friends of the pit. We took refuge in a cellar and stayed there while they continued to drop on all sides of us. We weren't down there long, when we came up things were different. The first air that passed had a stretcher on top of the seats and a man who looked as though he were dead, lay on it. Down the street a half dozen soldiers were putting a wounded man into a delivery truck. The sidewalks were covered with all sorts of wreckage, people were lying about, it was terrible. We did not see the worst either. Down in the old town, on the level of the sea, a couple of ships were completely wrecked and the people blown to atoms. One little boy at Sandgate, playing on the shore, had his leg blown off. I hope that the censor will realize that America needs to know just how headlong barbarous those air raids are, of absolutely no military value, just plain unadorned murder. It deserves the most drastic punishment that all combined civilization can administer."

W. J. Sherman.

SAVE SUGAR IN JELLY MAKING

Much waste of sugar and spoilage of Jellies can be avoided by using a simple alcohol test recommended by the Bureau of Chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture. To determine how much sugar should be used with each kind of juice put a spoonful of juice in a glass and add to it one spoonful of 95 per cent grain alcohol, mixed by shaking the glass gently. Pour slowly from the glass, noting how the pectin—the substance in fruits which makes the jelly—precipitates. If the pectin is precipitated as one lump a cup of sugar is all that is needed for each cup of juice. If in several lumps the proportion of sugar must be reduced to approximately three-fourths the amount of the juice. If the pectin is not in lumps, but is merely precipitated, the sugar should be one-half or less of the amount of the juice. If the juice shows no precipitation under this test, it is unsuitable for jelly making and must be combined with apples or other juices rich in pectin. This household test will do well before making the test to taste the juice as fruits not as acid as good tart apples probably will not make good jelly unless mixed with other fruits which are acid.

To the man who wants eighty or a hundred sixty acres of rich farm land and is willing to put in his time and energy we not only offer to sell the land at a low price on easy terms but will help him improve it by building a house and barn and assist him in clearing up five acres to plant with.

We not only say we will do those things but we are already doing them. The success of the farmer is our success. It will not cost you anything to investigate. Send for our literature. Write us a letter. The owning of a farm home is important enough to claim your time and attention. It is our business to tell you the truth.

Tell us your circumstances and we will find a way to meet your needs. Remember you are dealing directly with the owners of the land and that have plenty to choose from. Sure crops and good climate; soil the best and pure water.

SOLDIERS' BABIES

Our present state of war does not warrant any relaxation of interest in the subject of infant welfare this year. On the contrary, we owe it to the fathers who, as volunteers and conscripts, must be away from home to do our part in saving their babies' lives. Those brave fellows are doing enough in risking their own lives for the safety and happiness of the nation.

It may seem that there is not a very close connection between a father's fighting in Europe and his baby's living here, but there is. A reduced family income affects the baby seriously, especially in a high-cost-of-living market. It may mean the substitution of a cheap, low grade of milk for pure milk. In one instance I know of, this killed a baby last summer when our men were only so far away as the Mexican border.

The efficiency of fighting men, furthermore, is affected by whether their minds are harassed or at peace concerning the health and welfare of their families back home. This fact has been emphasized by Captain Calhoun, U. S. Army, who speaks not on theory but on the authority of a veteran soldier. Doubtless, there would have been a far larger number of volunteers had not many an otherwise willing soldier been deterred from enlisting by the question of the health and help of his wife and children.

Another reason more remote but not less patriotic was voiced by John Jones when he said: "Give me intelligent motherhood and good preconditions, and I have no doubt of the future of this or any other nation." Patriotism, humanity, love for babies and a sense of fair play, all combine to compel us not to lose sight of the lives and welfare of our babies at home while we are driving with every ounce of power for the safety and people of Belgium and France.

A FORMER RESIDENT WRITES FROM ENGLAND

W. J. Sherman of Wauwatosa, but now a resident of this city, being a brother to Mrs. R. A. Weeks and being employed in the Weeks Marble works, writes an interesting letter concerning the life in the raids that occurred over there and in which he was a participant. Mr. Sherman had been located in Boston for some time before going to Europe, where he is working with the Red Cross.

London, May 27.—Just returned from Folkestone at 2 p. m. You really ought to know, and I hope the censor doesn't find it will be of great value to the Allies for you to know, what happened last night at Folkestone. We were upstairs in the Kenton Apartments when we heard some suspicious sounds and noticed that people were hustling about and gazing upwards. We hurried out of doors and saw a large number of aeroplanes directly over us. They were so high that we couldn't see them for a long while. They were like shiny silver insects, nearly twenty in the air. In fact, they sounded like a hail storm does, the rumbling of their motors, so high in the air. But the sound of those engines was hellish. A screaming shriek as they descended, then a pause and a detonation that would wake the dead of the pit. We took refuge in a cellar and saw the aeroplanes descend to drop on all sides of us. We weren't down there long, but when we came up things were different. The first auto that passed had a stretcher on top of the seats and a man who looked as though he were dead, lay on it. Down the street a half dozen soldiers were putting a wounded man into a delivery truck. The sidewalks were covered with all sorts of wreckage, people were lying about, it was terrible. We didn't see the worst either. Down in the old town, on the level of the sea, a couple of shops were completely wrecked and the people blown to atoms. One little boy at Sandgate, playing on the shore, had his leg blown off. I hope that the censor will realize that America needs to know just how fendishly barbarous these air raids are, of absolutely no military value, just plain unadulterated murder. It deserves the most drastic punishment that all civilized civilization can administer.

W. J. Sherman.

Much waste of sugar and spoilage of jellies can be avoided by using a small amount of pectin. The Bureau of Chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, to determine how much sugar should be used with each kind of juice put a spoonful of juice in a glass and add to it one spoonful of 95 per cent grain alcohol, mixed by shaking the glass gently. Pour slowly from the glass, noting the position of the jelly—precipitated. If the pectin is precipitated as one lump a cup of sugar may be used for each cup of juice. If the pectin is precipitated in small pieces the proportion of sugar must be reduced to approximately three-fourths the amount of the juice. If the pectin is not in lumps, but is merely precipitated, the sugar should be one-half or less of the amount of the juice. If the juice shows no precipitation under this test, it is unsuitable for jelly making and must be combined with apples or other juices rich in pectin. The housewife will do well before making the test to taste the juice as fruits not as acid as good apples probably will not make good jelly unless mixed with other fruits which are acid.

SUCCESSFUL CHAUTAUQUA

S. G. Corey, who has had charge of the Chautauqua business in this city during the past week, reports that the affair held here was quite successful and while the affair ran behind a trifle, this was because a number of the season when the canvass was made, failed to make good when the sale was on. Some of these had removed from the city and others pleaded hard times and the high cost of living. However, taken altogether the projectors were well pleased with the affair and the attendance was all that could be desired.

INFORMATION TO HUNTERS

Following is an abstract taken from a circular letter to the county clerk relative to the game laws for 1917 from the Wisconsin Conservation Commission:

"The law provides for a special deer hunting tag the fee for which is 10c. When a hunter buys his license ask him if he desires a deer tag and if so you must fill out the tag in ink and insert the number of his license on the tag. Never issue a duplicate tag. If a hunter asks you for a duplicate tag advise him that he must secure it from the office the same as a duplicate license.

Applications for Hunting License This is important. Sub-section (2) of section 29:00 of the new laws particularly provide that an application in the form of an affidavit must be executed and filed with you covering every license you sell.

This year the taking of application blanks will be NO, and every county clerk when he is asked that question should simply point to the law and say that a county clerk nor no one else may change the law. The one must wait until his 15th birthday.
